

GRAHAM'S KIDNAPER ARRAIGNED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

GUN WIELDER BOUND OVER TO COMMON PLEAS COURT; SEEKS 2,000 BOND

Man Who Threatened to Kill Mrs. Harry Clark

RACES WITH DEATH

Graham, Unharmed, After
Perilous Ride in Auto
Describes Experience

Frank W. Stunich, 28, Dayton, who was captured at Miamisburg after he had kidnapped Chief of Police M. E. Graham when the latter attempted to arrest him Saturday evening, was bound over to Common Pleas Court by Judge E. D. Smith in Police Court Monday morning when arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

The charge was sworn to in an affidavit filed in Police Court Monday morning by Stunich's mother-in-law, Mrs. Harry Clark, West Main street. When Judge Smith read the charge and asked Stunich if he were guilty or not guilty, the accused man said, "I'm not guilty. I didn't know what I was doing."

Stunich then consented to waive preliminary examination and forego the hearing, and was bound over. His bond was fixed at $2,000 and he was returned to the city block at Police Headquarters. Relatives and friends of Stunich from Dayton, were attempting to make arrangements for his bond Monday. Stunich was removed to the County Jail Monday.

Mrs. Clark's charge was based on the accusation that Stunich threatened to kill her and his wife, Mrs. Louise Stunich Saturday. Although she did not have to testify at the arraignment, Mrs. Clark's allegations declare that Stunich entered her home Saturday with a rifle, which he thrust at her violently, and with an oath, declared he would kill her. Members of the family believe the gun jammed, and he was later somewhat pacified.

NOT SERIOUSLY HURT
Stunich is not suffering seriously from the bullet wound in his left cheek inflicted by Constable E. O. Schramm in effecting his capture Saturday night. He was taken to the Espey Hospital Sunday morning where Dr. Paul D. Espey, who is attending Stunich, took an X-ray picture of the wound. The view showed that the bullet had grazed the jaw bone, but had not inflicted a serious wound.

Chief Graham is convinced now that his wild ride with the drunk-crazed Stunich, was like hurrying at breakneck speed over the rough country turnpikes to keep a tryst with death. Sobered now, Stunich is considerably changed over his temperament of Saturday night when he pushed his machine at top speed, laughing at death at every gravelled section of road and every sharp turn.

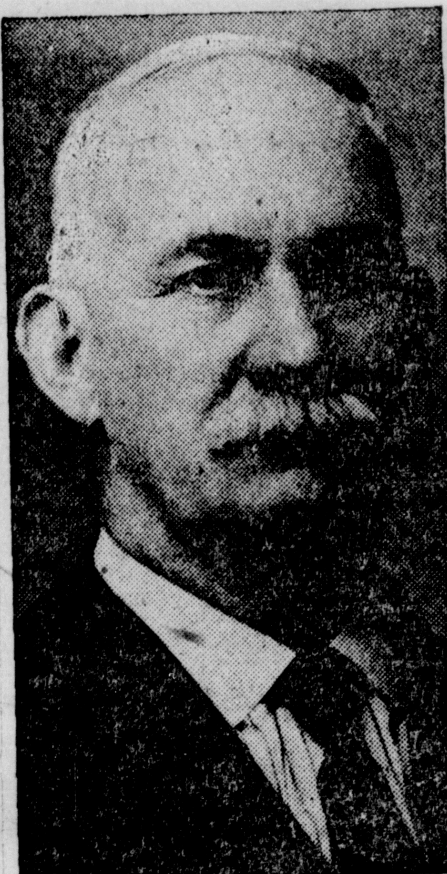

"After seeing the difference in Stunich since he is sobered I'm convinced that I just spent two hours with a crazy man Saturday night," said Chief Graham Monday. By humoring Stunich in his booze-fogged condition, and by talking him into a good humor, the Police head believes he saved his own life. Officials believe if Graham had lost his grasp on the machine or failed to stay with Stunich that he would have returned after evading police and carried out his threats to murder his wife and mother-in-law.

City Attorney J. A. Finney represented the state in the Police Court action Monday morning. Stunich was not represented by counsel.

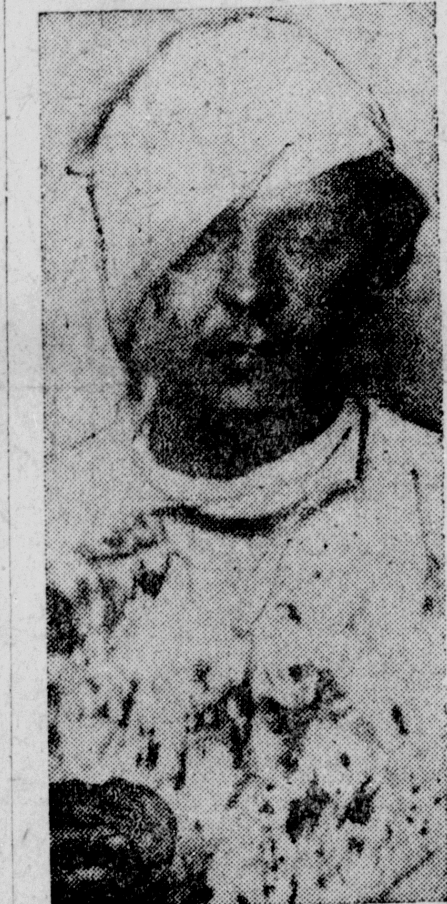

VISITED IN CELL

Stunich had several visitors in his cell at Police Headquarters Sunday. His wife, Mrs. Louise Stunich and her mother, Mrs. Harry Clark, visited him during the afternoon when Mrs. Stunich wanted to learn what arrangements he would make regarding his business in Dayton. Stunich is proprietor of a newly fitted-up and well-stocked billiard hall at Second and Crane streets, Dayton.

Stunich broke down and cried at sight of his wife and pleaded for forgiveness. He showed little remorse for his actions of Saturday evening but was profuse in promises should he be forgiven. Members of the family say that his treatment of his wife and mother-in-law has been almost unbearable for three years, causing them to live in mortal terror of him, although on being pacified on each occasion he has been penitent and begged forgiveness. Mrs. Stunich was afraid to leave him before because of threats that he would kill her mother. His treatment of her has amounted to torture, members of the family say. at Police Headquarters, including his mother and stepfather, his sister, another brother-in-law and sister and a friend from Dayton, all Austrians. Members of the Clark family say Stunich's relatives had endeavored to keep him out of trouble but had given up the attempt and had practically ignored him for the last two years. His stepfather, however, although he had been ignoring him until recently, had been camping with him along the Little Miami River. It was to this camp that Stunich said he intended taking Chief Graham Saturday night.

Stunich's mother, his sister, his uncle and two friends were in Police Court Monday morning. A friend, Nick Perris, interviewed Stunich in regard to bailing him out.

AUTO BANDITS ROB TRAIN OF $85,000 AFTER KILLING MAN

Pittston, Pa., July 30.—One man is dead and three others are in a hospital here as the result of one of the most daring daylight robberies ever perpetrated in this valley and the payroll of the West End Coal Company, of Scranton, said to amount to about $85,000 was taken by automobile bandits, who held up a southbound limited train on the Laurel line railway at the "cut" just south of the Moosic station shortly after 9:30 this morning. Five of the men boarded the train at Scranton and two companions were awaiting them in an automobile at Moosic where the hold up occurred.

DANGER DENIES DIVORCE UPON U. S. ARRIVAL

Statement of French Court
to Contrary, Irene Issues
Flat Denial.

New York, July 30.—Irene Castle Treman, famous dancer, has not divorced her husband, "Bob" Treman, she emphatically asserted today.

Miss Castle, arriving aboard the French liner Lafayette, denied with indignation the statement of the Seine court in Paris that she had been granted a separation from her husband.

"My husband will be back in New York Wednesday aboard the Majestic. Miss Castle said as her ship docked. The reason we did not return from France together was because he was delayed by important matters."

Miss Castle flatly denied she had instituted divorce proceedings against Captain Treman, but after evaded interrogation on the subject saying it was her "personal affair."

"If ever I get a divorce it would be to be single again and not to wed anybody else," Miss Castle said.

Miss Castle's denial that she had secured a divorce is in direct conflict with the statement made by the Paris Court.

The divorce, the Paris court announced, was granted on July 12.

LIMA GAS RATE FIGHT MAY BE OPENED AGAIN

Case Against Poor Expected to Come to
Head Soon

Lima, July 30.—City officials today upon the return of Law Director Paul Landis from his vacation, will consider the advisability of petitioning the State Supreme Court for a reopening of the Lima gas rate fight.

The conference will be the result of Governor Donahay's action in requesting Attorney General Crabbe to investigate whether it is possible to oust George T. Poor from chairmanship of the Ohio utilities Commission, because he owns stock in public utility corporations effected by his official votes and decisions.

Among the utilities in which Poor owns stock, according to disclosures in a recent hearing in the Federal Court at Cincinnati, is the Cities Service Corporation which controls the Western Ohio Gas Company. The Western Ohio Gas Company and the Lima Natural Gas Company and to Kenton, St. Marys, Wapakoneta and half a dozen other nearby towns.

Lima and nearby towns served by the Western Ohio are paying a rate of from one dollar to $1.15 per thousand cubic feet of gas consumed as the result of being defeated in one of the bitterest fights of its kind in recent years.

Lima took the lead in the battle, with the nearby cities co-operating. The city enacted a franchise ordinance allowing the Lima Natural Gas Company fifty-five cents a thousand feet. The company demanded the rate of one dollar and appealed to the State Utilities Commission, of which Poor was chairman.

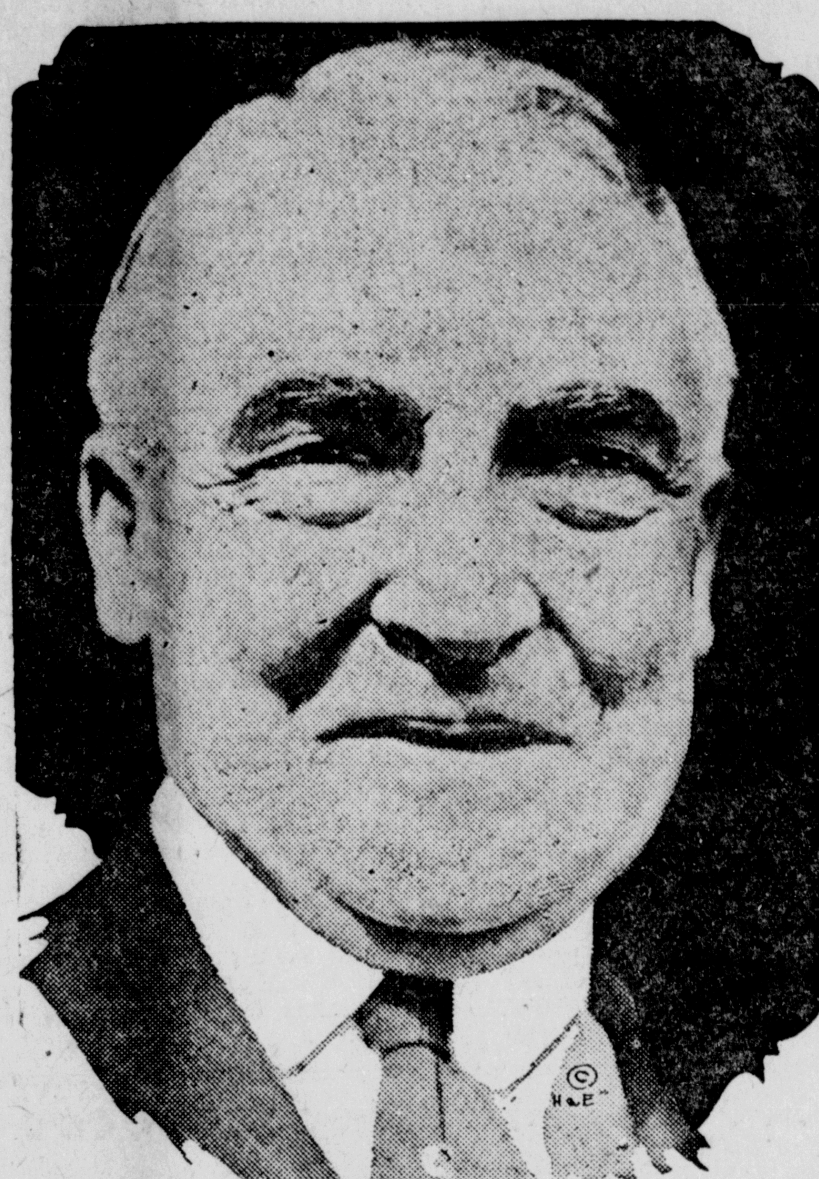

After a series of hearings the company was granted the rate it sought, on the plea that the Western Ohio had advanced its wholesale charge to the Lima corporation. The city appealed, but the Utilities Commission's right to set aside the city franchise ordinance rates was sustained by the State Supreme Court.

In his letter to Attorney General Crabbe, the governor expressed the opinion that Poor is guilty of malfeasance in office by his ownership of utilities stock and is subject to ouster.

COYNE CONFESSES HE KILLED WIFE

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.—Patrick Coyne, legless railroad man of Port Perry, near here, today cleared the mystery surrounding the death of his bride two weeks ago. Coyne confessed at noon today to Chief of County Detectives Robert H. Braun that his wife was shot while they were scuffling for possession of a revolver after Coyne had reprimanded his wife for staying in bed and "neglecting" him, while he "worked hard" to support her. He said he washed her body, put her to bed, went to work and fell into a railroad train which cut off his legs. He said he did not attempt suicide. He declared he was greatly excited, worried and nervous at the time.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE CONFINED TO BED

WARREN G. HARDING

DEMONSTRATIONS THROUGHOUT GERMANY ARE KEPT IN BOUNDS

Nation Breathes Easier as Crisis Passes—Threat of Civil War Not Yet Removed—Only One Serious
Outbreak Is Reported.

Berlin, July 30.—The dreaded Red demonstrations throughout Germany were everywhere kept within bounds by the vigorous military preparations and the pleadings of the government and today the whole nation breathed easier. But while the Communists failed to precipitate a whirlwind of violence the threat of civil war is not yet removed. However, the government has made promises of relief measures to lighten the distress of the people.

Only one serious outbreak was reported. One man was killed outright and another fatally wounded at Neuen Kuppahn, when an attempt was made to storm the jail.

Quiet prevailed throughout the occupied regions.

Concentration of police and reinforcements converted what might have been a catastrophe into a comparatively bloodless demonstration. In Berlin the Communists held their meeting indoors. In Dresden the Saxonian Reds conducted anti-fascist parades but no serious clashes took place.

President Ebert and Chancellor Cuno have promised immediate government measures to relieve famine and to readjust wages. The mark still hovers at its lowest ebb and it will be some time before the nation-wide distress can be relieved.

ALLEN COUNTY FARMER TURNS TO MOONSHINING TO RECOUP LOSSES

Arrested, Man Declares He Was Desperately in Need of Funds to Pay Off Mortgage—Out Under Bond
After Arraignment.

Lima, July 30.—Enormous profits wheat predominating, had vanished which he was told could be realized from the rum traffic and the pressing need of money with which to pay off a $12,000 mortgage on his land, caused him to become a moonshiner, Ephraim Howard, who resides six miles northwest of Lima, declared when he furnished $1,000 bond and was released from the County Jail today on a charge of operating a still.

Howard was reputed to be one of the wealthiest farmers in Allen County. He declared that expected profits from his big grain crops, with during the recent tumble in prices and that he was desperate for money with which to meet the loan. He said his credit was exhausted and he turned to "moonshining" in an effort to avert impending foreclosure and loss of his farm.

A 25-gallon still was found in a milkshed on Howard's farm when it was raided by three auto loads of sheriff's deputies.

Howard, pleaded guilty, before Probation Judge Hamilton and was bound over to the Grand Jury.

HARDING ABANDONS TRIP: TAKES TO BED AFTER BECOMING ILL

Physicians After Consultation Advise Abandoning Journey—Spends Sunday In Bed—Woodrow Wilson Case Recalled by Members of Party

San Francisco, July 30.—At eleven o'clock this morning President Harding's noted stomach specialist. When the conference was concluded at 1:20 o'clock this morning and comfortable night with several hours' sleep. Abdominal symptoms following digestible disturbance he experienced while on boat are now localized in gall bladder region. Complete rest is necessary during the period of his acute symptoms.

The doctors participating in the consultation were: Dr. C. E. Sawyer, senior medical officer of the White House; Dr. Joel T. Boone, of the United States navy; Dr. Ray Layman Wilbur, stomach specialist and president of Leland Stanford University; Dr. Charles M. Cooper, heart specialist and Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, who in private life is a physician.

Shortly before calling the consultation of physicians, Dr. Sawyer issued a statement in which he said: "New symptoms arising during the day indicate complications in the case of the President. A consultation of physicians has been called. After this consultation has been completed, bulletins will be issued regularly for the information of the public."

What the new symptoms were, Dr. Sawyer declined to state.

It was considered important, however, that Dr. Cooper, a noted heart specialist, had been called in. His presence was interpreted as meaning that the President's heart had been affected following his illness from ptomaine poisoning with which he was stricken Friday. This illness coming after forty days and nights of constant travel, is believed to have reduced the President to a weakened condition.

The phase of the President's condition stressed in the meager comment from the medical experts was his weakness. It was pointed out that Mr. Harding has undergone a severe strain during the 40 days since he left the White House on June 20.

The travel, together with the speaking and handshaking, the effect of the crab meat poisoning but most important, the administering of purgatives to rid the system of the poison, combined with the fact that since Friday, the President has had very little food, all tended to weaken him.

SPENDS DAY IN BED
The President spent all of Sunday in bed, with a trained nurse in constant attendance. His physicians said today the President would continue to remain in bed until such time as it may be considered he has strength to stand the long overland journey back to Washington without suffering ill effects.

FEAR HEART TROUBLE
While it is evident that the physicians entertain some fears concerning the President's heart condition, it was nevertheless his extreme weakness which was the principal reason for the drastic change in plans here. The President is very tired and the physicians did not believe that this extreme fatigue could be remedied by a 22-day trip through the tropics in August cooped up in a none too commodious naval transport.

How tired the President is and how much strength he has lost in the strenuous days since he left Washington, was strikingly illustrated Sunday morning upon his arrival in San Francisco. He arose from his bed aboard train and walked only some 20 steps to a waiting automobile which carried him to the hotel. He walked through the lobby of the hotel, was whisked upstairs in an elevator and thence walked down the long corridor to his suite. When he arrived there he was panting from the exertion and threw himself on a bed—the same Warren G. Harding that only four months ago played 36 holes, equally ten miles of golf on a hot, sandy course in Florida and finished comparatively fresh. This condition of extreme weakness, however, always follows an attack of ptomaine poisoning, according to the physicians.

It was recalled today that the physicians around Woodrow Wilson always said that if Mr. Wilson had "eased up" at a certain time in his strenuous traveling and working, he probably would have been a well man today. As it was he refused to slacken his pace and his historic breakdown—which ordinarily enough also occurred during a swing during the west, speedily followed.

The tragic Wilson example before them, the physicians around Mr. Harding quickly decided to take no chances. One of them privately characterized the abandonment of the trip and the return to the capital as an abundance of precaution.

They found in Mrs. Harding an able ally. She believes the place for a "sick man" is home and home in this case is in the White House.

San Francisco, July 30.—At eleven o'clock this morning President Harding's noted stomach specialist. FREE AND HERMAN PITCH GOOD BALL AND BAYLIFFS WIN

By WONES

The Xenia Bayliffs staged a neat fourth inning rally that netted them four runs and defeated the Cincinnati of Norwood by a 6 to 4 score, at Washington Park Sunday afternoon.

Curt Free started on the mound for the Bayliffs but injured his throwing arm and was forced to retire in favor of Herman in the seventh. Curt gets credit for winning the game.

Up until the accident Free was twirling fine ball. In the six rounds he worked the Norwoods got to him for six bingles and three runs none of the runs being earned.

Bob Herman, who relieved Free, showed nice form on the mound and pitched himself out of a hole in the seventh inning when the bases were full and none down. Herman got his curve ball breaking and whiffed two of the batsmen in this round. The next man flied to Stiles who made a nice catch. Herman had perfect control and did not issue any free tickets. He tanned four and let the Norwood bunch down with three hits and one earned run.

Bush was on the rubber for the Queen City gang, and was wild. He walked eight men and hit one. He was given nice support by his mates but his bases on balls were costly.

Norwood scored in the first inning after Wilson singled to left and was advanced to second on a bunt by Sink who was safe at first. Wilson made a dash for third and Baynes whipped the ball to Furnas who pegged wild to Shuey and Wilson was safe at third while Sink pulled up at second. Saunders grounded out. Wilson scoring. Miller fanned. Figsus was out, Free to Tucker.

The Bayliffs came back in their half of the first and tied the score. Tucker walked. Early sacrificed him to second. Furnas was out Sink to Sagel the latter making a nice pickup. Shuey singled down the third base line and Tucker scored. Stiles fouled out to Sink.

Norwood got two counters in the second. Sagel was safe on Early's error and stole second. Helter singled to right and scored Sagel Stiles' peg to Bayne was perfect but the latter missed the ball and Helter went to third. Chriswell fanned. Bush doubled and tried to stretch it into a triple and was out. Leahey to Early to Furnas. Helter scored on Bush's two base drive. Sink walked and Saunders popped to Shuey who made a nice catch for the final out.

The Bayliffs scored one run in the same inning after Leach had grounded same inning after Leach had grounded out. Leahey singled to right. Bayne was safe on Wilson's error, while Leahey went to third. Free hit to Wilson who threw Leahey out at the plate. Free being safe on a fielder's choice. Tucker was hit by a pitched ball putting Free on second. Early walked, filling the bases. Furnas flied to Helter for the last out.

The Bayliffs made a nice comeback in the fourth round. Bayne, first man up, walked, and Free was also passed. Tucker hit to Sink who forced Bayne at third. Early singled scoring Tucker. Shuey was safe on an infield hit while Early scored and Furnas took third on the hit. Stiles hit to Bush who threw Furnas out at the plate. Bush made a wild pitch and Shuey scored. Leach was safe after Wilson fumbled his grounder. Leahey flied to Chriswell for the third out.

The Norwood gang got their last tally in the ninth round after Chriswell doubled to center and went to third on Bush's infield out. Wilson grounded out. Sink singled to Fuller who made a nice stop but Chriswell scored. Saunders flied to Shuey for last out.

The Meat of the Wheat

STARCH is the "meat" of the wheat berry. It is the great energy-producing element of the grain.

But, in order to do you any good, it must be thoroughly digested, and it is right here that such a food as Grape-Nuts renders special service.

Grape-Nuts, made from wheat and malted barley, supplies the meat of the wheat in most digestible form.

That is because in the making of Grape-Nuts a large proportion of the starch is converted into dextrins and maltose—forms into which all starch elements must be changed before they can be assimilated by the system.

Grape-Nuts not only digests easily, but also aids in the digestion of other foods.

Crisp, delicious Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food. It supplies the life-essential vitamin-B; also iron, phosphorus and other important mineral elements for nerve, tooth, bone and other body structure.

The daily use of Grape-Nuts is a form of health insurance which has demonstrated its value for more than 25 years.

FRENCH JEWEL BEDIZENED WOMEN GAMBLERS.

From a late Paris dispatch we take the following, but far from commendation of it, say "God pity these silly women."

With jeweled fingers at the throttle, the railroad game known in polite gambling circles as chemin de fer is beginning to get up speed at France's leading week-end resort. Although Deauville's present season is just one week old, the infant already is sitting up and taking notice.

From 11 o'clock at night to sun-up every table in the bacarat rooms of the Casino goes full blast with recruits, mainly from the ultra-fashionable clientele of the Hotels Royal and Normandie. There is display of a bejeweled opulence of which Croesus never dreamed. Mrs. Nash, of Riviera and divorce court fame, last night looked almost sweet and girlish in a gown of pale-blue chiffon embroidered in silver. In addition to her quadruple strands of pearls she wore on her right arm bracelets of diamonds and great square emeralds such as would grace a crown, the collection making a five-inch band of flashy white and green fires. Encircling her left arm was a simple band of cabochon cut emeralds the size of dimes. Her hands were bare except for an oval diamond overlapping three of her fingers and a solitaire pearl of such a size that it must have anchored the oyster that bore it.

Mrs. Nash played with the utmost indifference in a game that required a 500-franc minimum for each bet, often leaving her place at the table where reposed a stack of 1000-franc notes held down with a gold vanity bag and a cigarette case.

Once she quit her place rather hurriedly when a dowager of ancient lineage upholstered in black and diamonds, mostly the latter, refused to be drawn into a desultory gaming-table conversation. Whereupon Mrs. Nash went to an adjoining table where a 3000-franc minimum stake was the rule, leaned like a guardian angel against the back of the croupier's chair and had chat with Regine la Flory, of Paris music hall fame, who had an extraordinary run of luck, netting her 75,000 francs in less than half an hour.

Mlle La Flory herself did not look at all badly. Her dress, covered with rich red and emerald green beads, made a good background for two ropes of large matched pearls and three deep bands of diamonds on her arm. The conversation between Mrs. Nash and La Flory was suddenly suspended when a quite unknown young thing appeared at their table with her hands crammed with large notes. It was not so much the rope of diamonds, hanging well below her waist, which caused them to frown. It was the generous number of large pigeon blood rubies which filled in the gaps between the diamonds on her arms. In comparison the average woman present who wore only a pint of jewels, and poverty stricken.

LAUSANNE TREATY SIGNED, TURKS GET BACK INTO EUROPE.

The Lausanne peace treaty formally establishing peace between the European Powers and Turkey was signed Tuesday. By the terms of the treaty Turkey regains Eastern Thrace and crosses the bridge between the East and West. She joins the League of Nations on the footing of equality.

Constantinople goes definitely to Turkey. All foreign troops will be withdrawn. The treaty makes peace between Greece and Turkey. It permits the patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church to remain in Constantinople.

It is one of the most stupendous and in some ways the most cruel human movements in history by its compulsory exchange of population, the Greeks in Turkey returning to Greece and the Turks in Greece returning to Turkey.

It is to solve the Armenian problem, Armenians being displaced to new havens.

It is Turkey's size by its recognition of the new boundaries of Syria, Mesopotamia, and Palestine.

With one stroke of the pen it rids Turkey of judicial capitulations, which China vainly sought to accomplish for itself at the end of the century which Japan achieved only after two decades of effort.

One way is Turkey treated differently from other nations. Foreign legal advisers will be empowered to receive and report to arrests and imprisonment of foreigners.

Attempts to gain preferential treatment in the future of trade contracts for foreign companies were defeated as was the effort to validate disputed British concessions in the oil fields of Mesopotamia.

The treaty was signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Greece, Rumania, and Turkey.

Annexed to the Treaty of Lausanne is a special "straits convention" whereby the waterways linking the Mediterranean and the Black Sea are thrown open to both the warships and merchant ships of all nations. It is a unanimous verdict that the treaty is the most significant single feature of the Lausanne conference. Bolshevik Russia probably committed Russia to opening the straits to me.

wooly gills, and pick out the meat that lies between the body and bones. Cut the claws with scissors and remove meat if tender enough, a large and tough lobster, however, must have the claws broken. Put the lobster meat through your food chopper or cut small by hand. Then measure it. To two cups of meat one-half teaspoon of salt, a dish of pepper, a dish of nutmeg, one teaspoon of lemon juice, one egg-yolk (hard boiled) one cup of finely diced celery and one and one-half cups of thick white sauce. Mix well and form into cutlets. Dip in bread crumbs and fry in butter in your frying pan. Serve hot with lemon slices.

Stuffed Tomato Salad: Scoop the centers from uncooked tomatoes and stuff with equal parts of diced apple and celery moistened with Mayonnaise. Chill and serve.

THE FISHERMAN

The man who loves to wade a stream
Like ordinary men may seem.
And seen upon a city street.
He looks like all the men we meet.
Yet there is much escapes the eye.
We never know the passer-by
Or get beneath the veils which hide
A fellow being's gentler side.

We cannot read men's eyes and tell
What thoughts behind their glances dwell.
We cannot in the passing throng
Know just what ears are tuned to song.
What hearts will throb with joy to see
The blossoms on a cherry tree.
What man of all the many here
Grows gentler when a child is near.

Yet when we pass upon a stream
A fisherman, though rough he seem
And clad in garments worn and old.
The story of his soul is told.
'Tis plain he loves a willow tree.
The laughter of the waters free.
The glory of the golden sun
And every rock he treads upon.

He finds the twitter of the birds
A sweeter speech than common words.
You know, because you find him there,
To him the distant hills are fair.
In him the wild flowers have a friend.
He loves the stream and every bend.
The tangled banks, the sky's blue span—
Or he'd not be a fisherman.

Today's Talk

A PRAYER FOR SUCCESS

I feel as one of your creatures,
God, tossed upon the shore, whose life is only beneath the depths of the water. How helpless I am, with the water so near.

Won't you lift me up with your ever-reaching hands? Won't you please place me where I belong?

How I flounder, lost within myself.
I know that when I find my place, I shall be able to render back all my life and energies in glad return for the happiness of having found where I belong.

So, God, give me my place. Let me to know the thing I was made to do.

And let me return service for having been placed aright.

This is my prayer—for success.
Not a success of great wealth and station. I will risk that, God, I want first to be doing the thing that creates pure joy in my heart for the mere doing. I want to feel the touch of my abilities, each sharpening its edge upon the other.

I want the kind of success that teaches the language of the flowers, of the silent wind, of the colorings of the sky at sunset of the movements of children at play. I want that success which will picture me to myself and make me a worthy contributor to all life and happiness.

Make me plastic, then, God. Like the clay from which the sculptor molds his dream and into which he puts his soul.

And when you have put me where
I belong, make me picturesque,
God! So that I may inspire, lead others, and demonstrate the vastness of influence rightly rendered.

Thank you, God. I know now that success is for—me.

UNCLE SAM HOLDS TO LOAN THEORY REGARDING DEBTS

Washington, July 30.—The government will decline any French proposal for making payments on the international debt owed the United States contingent upon the collection of reparations installments from Germany, according to the view prevailing in official and diplomatic circles.

President Harding and his advisers, it was pointed out, have manifested no intention of receding from the stand that reparations and the settlement of international debts owed the United States must be considered as distinctly separate subjects.

News of the French scheme for debt payments through allowing the United States a certain small fraction of chimerical collections from Germany on a $5,000,000,000 reparations bill were contained in dispatches from Paris.

Observers here failed to recognize any distinction, in principle, between the new French idea of an interrelated debt pool fed by fanciful German reparations payments and the old European "gold brick" of giving the United States German class C bonds to the amount of the international obligations owed the United States.

The class C bonds are everywhere regarded as utterly worthless, whereas there is the prospect that, if the allies are able to get together again and allow Germany an opportunity to function economically, some additional reparations may be collected. The principle adhered to by the United States, however, remains the same.

The United States loaned large sums to European nations in good faith during the war without any reference to the outcome of the conflict or to possible reparations in case of victory. The payment of these loans is a matter of national honor in no way associated with the fact that the allies, victorious through the aid given by the United States, are seeking to collect large sums from a vanquished enemy of which the United States government has asked nothing by way of recompense.

American experts can see no reason why the United States, convinced that the Franco-Belgian policy is hurrying Germany into economic impotence, should now change an established policy because the sacrifice of a principle might possibly bring a few dollars into the treasury at Washington.

According to the most authoritative figures obtainable, Germany has already surrendered the huge sum of $5,500,000,000 of her national wealth as a result of the treaty of Versailles. Of this amount, the United States, through questionable methods, was deprived even of a share to help defray the cost of maintaining on the Rhine troops desired by both the allies and by Germany.

Meanwhile, despite the rich spoils taken from the Berlin government, European nations, except Great Britain, have declined to discuss the settlement of their obligations on what is regarded as an honorable basis. This action has been taken despite the fact that the excess cost of their military establishments over the pre-war period would more than pay twice over the annual amounts required to fund their indebtedness on terms similar to those accepted by Great Britain.

The prevailing view in Washington is that the principal debtor nations of Europe are perfectly able to pay what they owe the United States, were they willing to give up imperialistic aspirations and get down to work. Until Europe gives some indication of being ready to take up debt settlements in good faith, there will be no sympathy for the schemes put forward in Paris or elsewhere.

TURNED OVER TO JUVENILE COURT

GUN WIELDER IS BOUND OVER HERE ON $2,000 BOND

A ray filled with moonshine and a craving to kill and a night featured by a horrible ride over rough roads at breakneck speed with a drunk-crazed madman at the wheel, was followed Sunday with Stunich, locked up at Police Headquarters, and Chief of Police Graham back on the job at headquarters unscathed.

The wild career of the gunman, now out on $10,000 for a murder committed in Newport, Ky., last February, cut short along the lonely Back Creek road a half-mile from Miamisburg, shortly before eight o'clock Sunday night by a well-aimed bullet from the gun of Constable E. O. Schramm of that village. Less than an hour afterward, Stunich subdued repentant, with his wound hastily bandaged by a Miamisburg physician, was returned to Police Headquarters by Chief Graham and Constable Schramm.

With the capture of the kidnaper, the kidnaped, the most sensational story in the history of Xenia's Police Department was written into history. The case paralleling the Griffith-Griffin incident in Cleveland, when Griffith kidnaped a Cleveland policeman and murdered him, drew out officers from every village and between Xenia and Cincinnati who watched every crossroads for the big maroon colored machine in which Stunich was holding Graham a captive.

Disobeying orders to drive to Police Headquarters, Stunich threw the machine into highspeed and hurried out of the city when the officer climbed on the running board to effect his arrest. Special Officer Spencer, who also leaped on the running board to assist in the arrest, was thrown off the car as it took the curb shortly after starting its wild flight. Standing on the running board and with his arms around Stunich's neck, Graham attempted to force him to stop the machine without avail.

Instead of slackening his pace, Stunich headed the machine for the bridge along West Main Street, in an attempt to sideswipe the officer off the running board. Graham then released his grip and swung into the car in time to avoid being thrown off. From then until the car was ditched near Miamisburg, the Police Chief was at the mercy of his drink-crazed chauffeur, who drove at a speed of 50 or 60 miles an hour over all kinds of roads in the van of ten or 15 automobiles filled with officers and citizens.

The trouble began late Saturday afternoon, when Stunich, went to the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clark, West Main Street, with the avowed intent of killing Mrs. Stunich. Entering the Clark home, Stunich is said to have thrust a .22 calibre rifle at his mother-in-law, Mrs. Clark, so fiercely that the barrel made an abrasion on her breast, forcing her back in her chair until the chair broke.

Stunich's action was accompanied by the threat that he was going to kill his mother-in-law and his wife. Convinced finally that his wife was not present, the drink-crazed man left and Police were summoned. Chief Graham answered the call alone, no other police being on duty at the time, but could not locate Stunich. Stunich in the meantime entered the Floyd Anderson flower store, next door to the Clark home, where he exhibited the rifle, and a .33 calibre Smith and Wesson revolver and repeated threats against his wife.

On a second call to Police Headquarters, Chief Graham and Special Officer Spencer responded at 5:45 o'clock. Stunich was away but the officers waited until he again drove up. Both jumped on the running board but Spencer was thrown off when the machine hit the curbing as it started.

"I grabbed him around the neck from where I was standing on the running board, and forced his head back so that he couldn't see where he was going," said Chief Graham later. "He kept right on going however, and was headed for the curbing and a telephone pole. I thought I was going to be sideswiped off by the pole, so I swung into the car."

"If he had tried to turn off Main Street at Dayton Avenue, we would have both been dug out of Pratt's grocery," said Chief Graham Sunday. "The Orange Street turn is wider though, and he managed to turn there without slackening his speed. When I ordered him to stop or slow down, he laughed and said, 'I'll show you how fast I can go.' As he continued to hit only the high places, I was afraid to shoot him, hit him or attempt to force him to stop for fear he would lose control of the machine and both of us would be killed."

"Thinking it would be suicide to molest him, all I could do was ride and try to argue with him. I was not on the back seat, but holding on to the side bar and practically sitting on the floor right back of the front seat. I thought a minute we would go in the ditch," thought from my position that I would be safer if the car was wrecked. I figured the best thing to do was just ride, and if we hit a big town where traffic would slow him up, and I'd have a chance of getting out, that I'd cover him and if he wouldn't stop I'd shoot him."

"I don't know the roads very well in that part of the country and didn't recognize any towns after we passed through Bellbrook. The speedometer on the machine was broken, but Stunich said we were going 90 miles an hour. I knew myself we were traveling awful fast and he was taking big chances on those rough pikes. He went around corners the same way. All the time he kept up a conversation and I figured my best play was to keep him humored, so I talked back to him."

"I asked him where he was going, and he said he was going to a fishing camp along the Little Miami River. I don't believe he knew the roads very well himself, and he didn't seem sure of his directions. Once he said, "I believe you're a good scout. I'll just take you down to this camp near Germantown for a ride. We'll be back in Xenia alright, before we get through riding tonight."

"I wasn't scared," said Chief Graham. "There was nothing to be scared of. He didn't threaten or let on as if he was going to kill me anytime. I figured the drink made him just like a baby, and I had to treat him as one. I figured the best way to do was to humor him along until I could get a chance to stop the car, cover him and get help. In the meantime we just rode."

"We hit one corner of Miamisburg, not going straight through the town, and came out again on what they call the Buck Creek road. It runs along Buck Creek. Stunich seemed to have lost his way then, for he stopped, and whirled the machine trying to turn around. Instead the back wheels went down in mud along the ditch, and we stuck."

"Stunich had the rifle on the front seat with him and his revolver in his pocket. When he saw the machine was stuck, he pointed the rifle at me and ordered me out of the machine. We then walked to a farmhouse near there to try to get someone to pull us out. Stunich kept me in front. He didn't keep the gun on me all the time, but handled it so that anyone noticing us wouldn't think I was covered. There was no one at the farm house, so we walked back."

"When we got back Stunich said, 'You got a gun on you?' I told him I had, and he asked me for it. He emptied my revolver and then gave the empty gun back to me. In the meantime we stood around in the weeds along the creek not far from the Buck Creek bridge. Stunich wanted to shoot at the red lights on passing automobiles, but I told him not to. I told him he was liable to hurt somebody, and he dropped that idea then. He did shoot two or three times at corn tassels, and anything he happened to see, until the rifle broke."

"Once he said, 'what you look so sour about. I got a notion to plug you.' I told him that was my natural expression, and talked him out of any shooting. It looked to me that all I could do was just talk him into a good humor and keep him from using his gun. I saw the young fellows go past who reported the incident, but I couldn't shout to them. That would have been suicide."

The young fellows referred to were boys going into Miamisburg, who reported what they thought to be a hold-up near the Buck Creek bridge to Constable Schramm. Schramm was unarmed, but hurried to the scene borrowing a cheap revolver carried by a Miamisburg motorcycle officer on the way. When he arrived at the scene, Stunich and Graham were facing each other, the former holding the rifle.

Schramm said: "I walked up to Stunich and said, 'what are you doing with that gun?' The fellow replied, 'shooting squirrels.' I said, 'well, give it to me,' and jerked it out of his hand. Stunich then reached for his revolver, walking backward away from me. I saw he was going to pull, so I shot. Stunich didn't fall so I shot again, or tried to, but the gun didn't go off."

"After I pulled the trigger the second time, Stunich fell in the weeds. The first shot hit him in the cheek. Some young fellows had followed me, and I sent them home for my two good pistols and my flashlight. When Stunich backed away from me and fell I got up on Buck Creek bridge, where I would have a full view of anything he tried to do. Graham also came up on the bridge and began loading his revolver. I didn't know who Graham was, and thought maybe I was in danger from him."

"I asked Graham who he was, and when he told me he was Chief of Police at Xenia, I made him prove it. He showed me his badge. When the boys arrived with my good guns and flashlight, I used the light to find Stunich in the weeds. He was lying down, but his revolver was in his right hand outstretched."

After Stunich's injuries were dressed, Schramm drove Stunich's car with Graham and Stunich in the rear seat, to this city. Stunich talked freely on the way back according to Chief Graham. He complained of his head hurting, and admitted that moonshine whiskey led him to the trouble. He told Chief Graham he should be glad the way it ended, and told him he had killed a man in Newport, Kentucky. "If you kill a man you never get it off your mind," he said. "You ought to be glad you didn't have to kill anyone." After arriving here Stunich told questioners he was only taking the Chief a joy ride and intended bringing him back safe. "Did you intend hurting him?" he was asked. "Who, me?" said Stunich. "No. What I want to hurt him for. Just take him ride. That's all." Stunich is an Austrian and talks brokenly.

After the hasty departure of Stunich and Chief Graham from Xenia, Spencer and Patrolman William Boyles gave chase in a taxicab driven by William Wike that broke down the other side of Bellbrook. In the meantime Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy Sheriff John Baughn left in the chase in a Pierce-Arrow bus operated by the Dayton-Xenia Bus Company, a subsidiary of the D. and X. Traction Company. The bus was driven by Ike Ellison and John Rachford, and was given right of way at high speed at all intersections where officers were guarding the roads. The bus picked up Spencer and Boyles and continued to Hamilton through Lebanon and Franklin. A telephone call informed them that Stunich had been captured. Other citizens in autos followed the machine part of the way.

Although the trouble Saturday evening terminated from court action taken in Dayton by Mrs. Stunich to obtain an injunction against Stunich abusing her and threatening her life, the trouble has actually existed for two years, it is said.

Stunich married Miss Clark a little more than two years ago. It is alleged he misrepresented himself before the marriage, and Mrs. Stunich's parents objected to the match. He is said to have abused and threatened her, once firing a shot at her. She continued to live with him, she said, because he threatened to kill her mother if she left him.

Stunich formerly operated a saloon at 515 West Twelfth Street, Newport, Kentucky. According to reports, it was there that he shot and killed William Ewing, of Eighth Street, near Bright on Street, Newport, February 22, 1922. Ewing is alleged to have entered Stunich's saloon and engaged in an argument with Stunich.

During the argument, it is said, Ewing threw a cuspidor at Stunich and the latter drew a revolver. It is said he shot once at the floor and then shot and killed Ewing. He was indicted and released on $10,000 bond. He is to be tried next fall. Chief Graham said he reviewed the killing on his way back from Miamisburg, Saturday night.

Stunich has been operating a pool room at Second and Crane Streets, Dayton for some time.

Finding that his wife had sought an injunction against him in Dayton courts, Stunich became infuriated and came here Saturday evening with the avowed intent of killing his wife and mother-in-law. He was well fortified with moonshine whiskey, on which he blamed his escape after being sobered by the bullet wound in his cheek.

Stunich, Chief Graham and Schramm were interviewed by Prosecuting Attorney J. K. Williamson and City Attorney J. A. Finney at Police Headquarters Saturday night. Stunich's injury was dressed by Coroner E. E. Kimmell of Montgomery County in Miamisburg Saturday evening. On his arrival here, the wound was still bleeding through the hastily applied bandages, and Dr. Paul D. Espey again dressed it. Sunday morning an X-ray picture was taken to determine the extent of the injuries. The bullet entered the left cheek just back of the mouth and came out just before reaching the ear. It is thought to have grazed the jaw bone. Stunich's automobile was turned over to his wife's relatives.

Father's "57 Daughters" Are Being Sought

Dr. Holten B. Allen has been arrested in Los Angeles, Cal., on an indictment found in Sabot, Va., charging violation of the Mann act, after he had taken Miss Faldath Allen, 17, from the South to his "Mountain School" in Virginia. The authorities are seeking information as to the whereabouts of the 57 other "daughters" Allen is said to have taken to Pittsburgh, Pa., from his "Mountain School." Allen is said to have received $200,000 subscriptions from wealthy people for the support of his alleged school. He described himself as leader of a movement to uplift the poorer white children of the mountains of North Carolina.

RESERVES LOSE TO STUDEBAKER'S HERE BECAUSE OF ERRORS

Although the Xenia Reserves out-hit the Dayton Studebakers at Reserve Park Sunday afternoon, the locals came out on the short end of a 9 to 6 count. Six errors paved the way for the visitors' victory.

The Studebakers started out strong in the first inning, assuming a lead that was never overcome, by hammering out five runs. A single by J. Payne, an error by Johnson on Rohlman's roller, a double by Dadisman, a muffed ball by DeAtley, and an attempted fielder's choice that did not pan out, resulted in the big lead.

The Reserves scored twice in their half on a single by Leahey, the first of three hits he got during the afternoon, a stolen base, dropped throw at the plate, a walk and Johnson's hit. The visitors scored once in the fourth on hits by Greenbaum, J. Payne and Rohlman. They added two in the sixth on Blatz's walk, an infield out, Leahey's error, another infield out and Dadisman's single and ended their scoring in the ninth on a single by Dadisman, his stolen base and an error by Leahey on Zewister's effort that allowed him to score.

The Reserves got three in the sixth. Leahey singled, Ciphers doubled, DeAtley singled and stole second and O'Hara doubled. The last effort of the locals came in the eighth, when Ciphers tripled and scored on DeAtley's sacrifice fly. Green doubled in the ninth with two gone, but Shaw lined out to win.

More careful work in the infield would have won the game for locals for Ciphers pitched fair ball and hits were seldom bunched off his delivery. The locals were crippled by a shifted lineup also and an injury to Wilson, regular catcher, which forced his retirement in fifth. Wilson was struck in the ear by a ball and Green took his place.

The Reserves have signed Dadisman, crack first baseman for the Studebakers who will play with the locals when they meet the Xenia Red Sox in the first game of the city series next Sunday. Alleged Goebel Assassin Serves Prison Term

James Howard.

Memories of the assassination of Governor William Goebel, who was shot to death as he entered the State House in Frankfort, Ky., 24 years ago were revived by the discovery that James B. Howard, mountaineer, who was once given a life term for complicity with Henry Youtzel and Caleb Powers in the murder, is in the Stuttgart, (Arkansas) State Penitentiary serving a term for forgery. Howard and Powers were pardoned by a Republican governor in 1908. Powers later became Secretary of State in Kentucky and later going to Congress. Youtzel was pardoned by a Democratic Governor later. Howard, who is 62, is serving his second term. He recently escaped and a heavily armed posse, expecting a battle, pursued him. However, he surrendered, saying: 'Youtzel is in the ministry. Powers is in Congress and I am in the Arkansas Penitentiary.'

Mlle. LENGLEN IN DIFFERENT SETTING

The bride was given away by her brother, the Hon. Henry Littleton. Gen. Storrs is Civil Governor for Great Britain in Jerusalem, and the wedding was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Samuel, the former being High Commissioner for Palestine.

TRIUMPH FOR JUDET WHEN FREED

M. and Mme Ernest Judet

M. Ernest Judet, prominent French editor, received an ovation in Paris when he was acquitted, after a bitter trial, on charges of treason. He had been charged with dealing with the enemy in the World War, when he fled to Switzerland. The Government alleged he received many millions of francs for aiding the Germans, but failed to prove the charge. M. Judet is shown here, with his wife, leaving the Assizes after being freed.

Miss Mary E. Kennedy, treasurer; Mrs. Ellen Ryan Jolly, LL. D., of Rhode Island, chairman of the finance committee; Mrs. Mary Arthur, Minneapolis, national vice-president; Miss C. Harrington, chairman of the committee on Irish history, and Miss Anna Mary Rice, of Indianapolis, youngest member

EX-RULERS OF PORTUGAL IN ENGLAND

Ex-King Manuel & Ex-Queen Victoria

Two of the most distinguished guests to attend the lawn tennis exhibition given by Lady Wavertree at Sussex Palace, Regents' Park, London, were ex-King Manuel and ex-Queen Victoria, deposed rulers of Portugal. They seem to be in jovial mood.

Although William Gibbs McAdoo, son-in-law of President Wilson and formerly Secretary of the Treasury, refused to admit in Washington recently, he even had a hat, his conference in the national capital indicated that he really did possess a political hat and that he is about ready to toss it into the ring for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency next year.

McAdoo's Hat Ready For the Ring?

W. G. McAdoo

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen

We are used to seeing pictures of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French girl, who holds the woman's lawn tennis championship of the world, in striking action scenes, skirts high in air. But the tiny young woman, who has held the world's championship five times in succession, sometimes has her quiet moments. She is pictured here taking a well-earned rest at the home of friends in London.

VETERANS DISCUSS AID FOR DISABLED

J. A. McFarland, Gen. Hines, C. H. Cook & F. J. Irwin

J. A. McFarland, new National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, with C. Hamilton Cook and Frank J. Irwin, is shown in Washington, conferring with Brigadier General Frank Hines, Director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, on matters of benefit to the men who were incapacitated in the war.

HOLD 75TH EQUAL RIGHTS CELEBRATION

Suffrage Leaders

The National Women's Party held a novel celebration in honor of the 75th anniversary of the first meeting of suffragists in the United States. A pageant of the period of 1848, when Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and others met in Seneca Falls, N. Y., to demand the vote for women, was re-enacted

CHURCH CROWDED AS PREACHER GIVES FAREWELL SERMON

The auditorium and lecture room of the First M. E. Church were filled Sunday night, when the Rev. E. W. Middleton, resigned pastor of the First Reformed Church, delivered his farewell address.

The Rev. Mr. Middleton talked on the subject, "Public Spirit" based on the story of Esther in her intercession for the salvation of a nation.

The Rev. V. F. Brown, of Trinity M. E. Church, presided at the meeting. The Rev. C. P. Proudfoot of the Second U. P. Church, read the Scripture, the Rev. A. J. Furstenburger, of the Friends Church, leading in prayer. The Rev. R. E. Brown, of the First Baptist Church, pronounced the benediction. A solo was sung by Mrs. Raymond Wolf, and a duet by J. F. Ketter and Miss Cora Williams.

The Rev. Middleton delivered a second address, following the church meeting, on the Court House lawn, to over a thousand people, who were unable to get into the church earlier in the evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth Collins of North King Street returned home Friday from Freeport, Pa., where she spent a month visiting her daughter, Mrs. Downie.

HINDENBURG LINE WILL BE SHOWN AT GREENE COUNTY FAIR

A replica of a ten acre section of the now-famous Hindenburg line, will be exhibited at the Greene County Fair this week as a feature attraction of the many tenced shows along the midway.

Captain G. W. Beerworth, formerly of the Canadian Engineering Corps and Paul Gage, both of Nashville, Tenn., are exhibiting the model prior to its being placed in the Tennessee

War Memorial Building, a $2,000,000 structure being erected in memory of Tennessee soldiers who fought in the world war.

The model was made by Beerworth and is a true replica of a German sector, showing trenches with the dugouts, firing steps, communication trenches and barbed wire entanglements. The model resembles mud-soaked ground, rippled on its surface by shell craters. Photographs and relics of the war obtained by Beerworth are exhibited in connection with the model.

The Greene County Fair is the smallest such fair at which the model has been shown, it is said. The exhibit is staged in a tent, 37 by 75 feet in dimensions and no admission charge is being made. Visitors may contribute what they please in a box provided for that purpose and the money thus collected will be used to defray the expenses of taking the model around the country.

The model is said to depict one of the most bitterly contested bits of ground along the war front, showing the exact conditions under which the soldiers lived and fought. Other paraphernalia adds to the war time atmosphere of the exhibit.

The Misses Rowens and Mildred McKay of the Wilmington pike, have returned home after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Homer McConkey, of Springfield.

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Kuhn and family, have returned home after spending two weeks at Orchard Island, and with relatives and friends at Leesburg, O.

MUSKINGUM HAS FARM FOR ITS USE

New Concord, O. July 30—The unusual interest that has been manifested by the best farmers in Ohio in The Agricultural Course at Muskingum has convinced the president, Dr. J. Knox Montgomery, of the necessity to establish a school of Applied Agriculture where everything that is taught in the class room can be demonstrated on the farm. Intensive work is given in Animal Husbandry—Live Stock Feeding—General Farm Management—Power Farming—Farm Mechanics—Soil and Soil Fertility, Farm Crops—Tree Fruits—Vegetable Gardening—Farm Motors—Farm Tractors—Farm Trucks and Teachers' Agriculture.

Muskingum has over thirty thousand dollars worth of machinery and other apparatus to use in the practical applications of the Science of Agriculture and Horticulture.

The help of seventeen of the most successful farmers in Ohio has been secured to assist the faculty at Muskingum in the class instruction in all agricultural subjects.

Styles BY LENORE

Among the interesting dresses seen this summer are those of white wool crepe. This fabric, of substantial texture as a base for the smart lines of the season, yet almost as sheer as crepe de chine, is proving exceedingly popular for the type of all-white frock that many women like to wear at resorts—a type of dress that is not to be classified as a sport model, but which at the same time does favor a slight severity of silhouette.

These are frequently made beautiful with embroidery in bright primitive colors, or with drawn-work, and one of the most attractive dresses of this material employs bands of eyelet embroidery in the delectable manner shown in the sketch.

Altogether different in mood is the frock of white voile dotted and bordered in sunny yellow. A crisp, breezy frock that expresses the spirit of summer days.

THE MISFIT

By Jane Phelps

NATALIE ADAPTS HERSELF AT LAST

Chapter LIX

"It is such a joy to direct my own household," Natalie said to Beverly Rainsford, "to feel that I am really mistress of my husband's home."

"Yet many girls would be only too glad to be relieved of the responsibility," Beverly replied, "the handling of servants and the like."

"Perhaps—but they never have lived as I have; lived in a home where I was nothing but a piece of furniture, not ornamental at that. I feel so free, so absolutely content. And Beverly," Natalie added wistfully, "I am improving, aren't I? I am becoming more fit to be Horace's wife?"

"Indeed, you are, Natalie, although I cannot agree with you that you were not fit to be his wife before. The accident of birth was all that lay between you. In every other way you were his equal, in honesty of purpose, in wisely rectitude. Naturally the little amenities of which you were ignorant fretted you, yet they are nothing really vital after all. Nothing that a person of character and determination cannot make their own."

Of the thought that troubled her, Natalie never spoke. It had come to her gradually and had persisted. She had practically driven her husband's mother from her home, had made her feel she had lost her son. She had demanded he choose, and when in her great love Mrs. Crandell had stepped aside for the younger woman, she, Natalie, had taken the gift as her right.

Horace seldom spoke of his mother to her. Natalie knew they corresponded regularly, but beyond that she knew nothing. When asked about Mrs. Crandell, she invariably said: "She prefers to live abroad."

Natalie's return to Horace, her taking up her rightful position in society, her improved appearance, had again attracted Craig Harper to her. Natalie had been cold, almost rude to him; but he had refused to take offense and imposed upon his former friendship for Horace to establish himself in her good graces. Only once had he referred to what had happened, then to apologize meekly, but she had ignored his apology, making no reply other than to say:

"I do not care to discuss that or anything with you."

Natalie never received him when alone, but it was inevitable that they should meet at the homes of others. Often Natalie considered telling Horace, begging him to let Craig understand she never wished to speak to him; but the fear that Horace might think she had been to blame; that she had encouraged Harper's attentions in that lonely time restrained her. But she did tell Beverly, and Beverly spoke to Craig. She made him feel ashamed of himself, let him understand that she had always known Natalie to be good and true, and so tactfully that he ceased to annoy Natalie—although he persisted in trying to be friendly.

"What a dear Beverly is," she said to Horace, after Craig told her Beverly had given him a talking to. "I don't see how I ever could have disliked her."

"We often dislike people whom we do not know—and understand," Horace replied, "when if we let ourselves become really acquainted with them we would like them."

Natalie knew her was thinking of his mother, and made no reply. But what he said troubled her. Would she ever like Mrs. Crandell? Was there anything about her to win her affection—even if she knew her.

Natalie never had felt acquainted with her husband's mother. Always she had seemed so distant, so like a person who had just crossed her path only to distress her. Of her real self, Natalie knew nothing. Often she had wondered what there was in the cold, aristocratic woman that made Horace love her, that made her friends so devoted to her.

But these thoughts, these happenings were but unpleasant ripples on the surface of her pleasantly flowing existence. Most of the time Natalie was absolutely content, her days filled to overflowing with interest and to love of her husband.

Natalie saw Etta often. To motor over and take her and little Natab for a ride, to carry gifts to her nurse, gave her exquisite pleasure. Never could she forget what Etta and Cissy had done for her. Often she would bring her namesake home with her, and for hours play with the child, sometimes keeping her until Horace came home, when together they would return her to her parents.

"It is wonderful to be so happy," she said to Horace, "Sweet to be loved."

"And you have forgiven me, dear. Forgiven all the pain I caused you?"

"I have forgotten everything except that you love me," Natalie smiled at she answered. "I am so happy that sometimes I am afraid."

Slander The Woman

Adapted from "The White Frontier"
By Jeffrey Deپرد

"You were in the men's arms when his wife shot him?" cried the prosecutor, pointing the finger of scorn at her. "Yes! Yes! But let me explain—" she answered in terror. "Answer only the question," roared the judge, and as though splattered by the mud of the streets, she knew that all she cared for was lost. But here begins the real story, a drama that sweeps from courtroom and aristocratic ancestral halls to the far reaches of the north—the tremendous drama of a woman's love and a woman's vengeance.

GRAHAM'S KIDNAPER ARRAIGNED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

GUN WIELDER BOUND OVER TO COMMON PLEAS COURT: SEEKS 2,000 BOND

Man Who Threatened to Kill Mrs. Harry Clark
Blames Liquor

RACES WITH DEATH
Graham, Unharmed, After
Perilous Ride in Auto
Describes Experience

Frank W. Stunich, 28, Dayton, who was captured at Miamisburg after he had kidnapped Chief of Police M. E. Graham when the latter attempted to arrest him Saturday evening, was bound over to Common Pleas Court by Judge E. D. Smith in Police Court Monday morning when arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

The charge was sworn to in an affidavit filed in Police Court Monday morning by Stunich's mother-in-law, Mrs. Harry Clark, West Main street. When Judge Smith read the charge and asked Stunich if he were guilty or not guilty, the accused man said, "I'm not guilty. I didn't know what I was doing."

Stunich then consented to waive preliminary examination and forego the hearing, and was bound over. His bond was fixed at $2,000 and he was returned to the city block at Police Headquarters. Relatives and friends of Stunich from Dayton, were attempting to make arrangements for his bond Monday. Stunich was removed to the County Jail Monday.

Mrs. Clark's charge was based on the accusation that Stunich threatened to kill her and his wife, Mrs. Louise Stunich Saturday. Although she did not have to testify at the arraignment, Mrs. Clark's allegations declare that Stunich entered her home Saturday with a rifle, which he thrust at her violently, and with an oath, declared he would kill her. Members of the family believe the gun jammed, and he was later somewhat pacified.

NOT SERIOUSLY HURT
Stunich is not suffering seriously from the bullet wound in his left cheek inflicted by Constable E. O. Schramm in effecting his capture Saturday night. He was taken to the Espey Hospital Sunday morning where Dr. Paul D. Espey, who is attending Stunich, took an X-ray picture of the wound. The view showed that the bullet had grazed the jaw bone, but had not inflicted a serious wound.

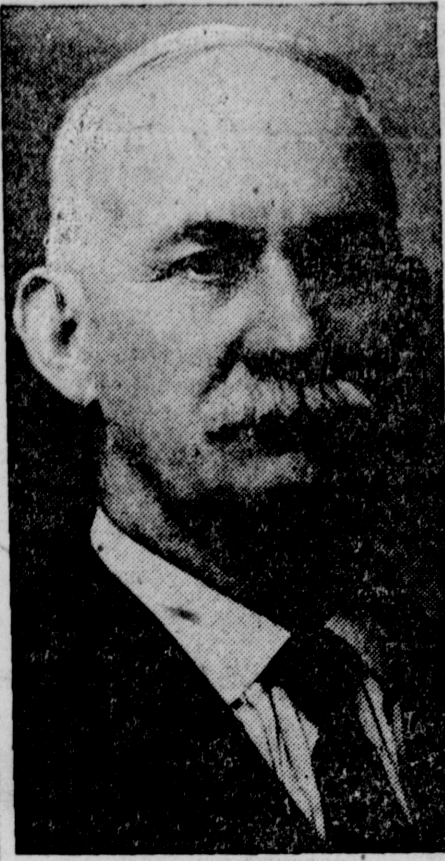

Chief Graham is convinced now that his wild ride with the drunkard Stunich, was like hurrying at breakneck speed over the rough country turnpikes to keep a tryst with death. Sobered now, Stunich is considerably changed over his temperament of Saturday night when he pushed his machine at top speed, laughing at death at every gravelled section of road and every sharp turn.

"After seeing the difference in Stunich since he is sobered I'm convinced that I just spent two hours with a crazy man Saturday night," said Chief Graham Monday. By humoring Stunich in his boozed condition, and by talking him into a good humor, the Police head believes he saved his own life. Officials believe if Graham had lost his grasp on the machine or failed to stay with Stunich that he would have returned after evading police and carried out his threats to murder his wife and mother-in-law.

City Attorney J. A. Finney represented the state in the Police Court action Monday morning. Stunich was not represented by counsel.

VISITED IN CELL
Stunich had several visitors in his cell at Police Headquarters Sunday. His wife, Mrs. Louise Stunich and her mother, Mrs. Harry Clark, visited him during the afternoon when Mrs. Stunich wanted to learn what arrangements he would make regarding his business in Dayton. Stunich is proprietor of a newly fitted-up and well-stocked billiard hall at Second and Crane streets, Dayton.

Stunich broke down and cried at sight of his wife and pleaded for forgiveness. He showed little remorse for his actions of Saturday evening but was profuse in promises should he be forgiven. Members of the family say that his treatment of his wife and mother-in-law has been almost unbearable for three years, causing them to live in mortal terror of him, although on being pacified on each occasion he has been penitent and begged forgiveness. Mrs. Stunich was afraid to leave him before because of threats that he would kill her mother. His treatment of her has amounted to torture, members of the family say. Another party that visited Stunich at Police Headquarters, including his mother and stepfather, his sister, another brother-in-law and sister and a friend from Dayton, all Austrians. Members of the Clark family say Stunich's relatives had endeavored to keep him out of trouble but had given up the attempt and had practically ignored him for the last two years. His stepfather, however, although he had been ignoring him until recently, had been camping with him along the Little Miami River. It was to this camp that Stunich said he intended taking Chief Graham Saturday night.

Stunich's mother, his sister, his uncle and two friends were in Police Court Monday morning. A friend, Nick Peris, interviewed Stunich in regard to bailing him out.

AUTO BANDITS ROB TRAIN OF $85,000 AFTER KILLING MAN

Pittston, Pa., July 30.—One man is dead and three others are in a hospital here as the result of one of the most daring daylight robberies ever perpetrated in this valley and the payroll of the West End Coal Company, of Scranton, said to amount to about $85,000 was taken by automobile bandits, who held up a southbound limited train on the Laurel line railway at the "cut" just south of the Meosic station shortly after 9:30 this morning. Five of the men boarded the train at Scranton and two companions were awaiting them in an automobile at Meosic where the hold up occurred.

DANGER DENIES DIVORCE UPON U. S. ARRIVAL

Statement of French Court
to Contrary, Irene Issues
Flat Denial.

New York, July 30.—Irene Castle Treman, famous dancer, has not divorced her husband, "Bob" Treman, she emphatically asserted today.

Miss Castle, arriving aboard the French liner Lafayette, denied with indignation the statement of the Seine court in Paris that she had been granted a separation from her husband.

"My husband will be back in New York Wednesday aboard the Majestic," Miss Castle said as her ship docked. "The reason we did not return from France together was because he was delayed by important matters."

Miss Castle flatly denied she had instituted divorce proceedings against Captain Treman, but after evaded in interrogation on the subject saying it was her "personal affair."

"If ever I get a divorce it would be to be single again and not to wed anybody else," Miss Castle said.

Miss Castle's denial that she had secured a divorce is in direct conflict with the statement made by the Paris Court.

The divorce, the Paris court announced, was granted on July 12.

LIMA GAS RATE FIGHT MAY BE OPENED AGAIN

Case Against Poor Expected to Come to
Head Soon

Lima, July 30.—City officials today upon the return of Law Director Paul Landis from his vacation, will consider the advisability of petitioning the State Supreme Court for a reopening of the Lima gas rate fight.

The conference will be the result of Governor Donahay's action in requesting Attorney General Crabbe to investigate whether it is possible to oust George T. Poor from chairmanship of the Ohio utilities commission, because he owns stock in public utility corporations effected by his official votes and decisions.

Among the utilities in which Poor owns stock, according to disclosures in a recent hearing in the Federal Court at Cincinnati, is the Cities Service Corporation which controls the Western Ohio Gas Company. The Western Ohio Gas Company and to Kenton, St. Marys, Wapakoneta and half a dozen other nearby towns.

Lima and nearby towns served by the Western Ohio are paying a rate of from one dollar to $1.15 per thousand cubic feet of gas consumed as the result of being defeated in one of the bitterest fights of its kind in recent years.

Lima took the lead in the battle, with the nearby cities co-operating. The city enacted a franchise ordinance allowing the Lima Natural Gas Company fifty-five cents a thousand feet. The company demanded the rate now in effect and appealed to the State Utilities Commission, of which Poor was chairman.

After a series of hearings the company was granted the rate it sought, on the plea that the Western Ohio had advanced its wholesale charge to the Lima corporation. The city appealed, but the Utilities Commission's right to set aside the city franchise ordinance rates was sustained by the State Supreme Court.

In his letter to Attorney General Crabbe, the governor expressed the opinion that Poor is guilty of malfeasance in office by his ownership of utilities stock and is subject to ouster.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30.—Patrick Coyne, legless railroad man of Port Perry, near here, today cleared the mystery surrounding the death of his bride two weeks ago. Coyne confessed at noon today to Chief of County Detectives Robert H. Braun that his wife was shot while they were scuffling for possession of a revolver after Coyne had reprimanded his wife for staying in bed and "neglecting" him while he "worked hard" to support her. He said she washed her body, but her head went to work and fell under a railroad train which cut off his legs. He said he did not attempt suicide. He declared he was greatly excited, worried and nervous at the time.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE CONFINED TO BED

WARREN G. HARDING

DEMONSTRATIONS THROUGHOUT GERMANY ARE KEPT IN BOUNDS

Nation Breathes Easier as Crisis Passes—Threat of
Civil War Not Yet Removed—Only One Serious
Outbreak Is Reported.

Berlin, July 30.—The dreaded Red demonstrations throughout Germany were everywhere kept within bounds by the vigorous military preparations and the pleadings of the government and today the whole nation breathed easier. But while the Communists failed to precipitate a whirlwind of violence the threat of civil war is not yet removed. However, the government has made promises of relief measures to lighten the distress of the people.

Only one serious outbreak was reported. One man was killed outright and another fatally wounded at Nueve Kuppen, when an attempt was made to storm the jail.

Quiet prevailed throughout the occupied regions. Concentration of police and Reichswehr converted what might have been day night. Mrs. Murrell F. Moffat, a catastrophe into a comparatively bloodless demonstration. In Berlin the Communists held their meeting indoors. In Dresden the Saxons Red conducted anti-fascist parades but no serious clashes took place.

President Ebert and Chancellor Cuno have promised immediate government measures to relieve famine and to readjust wages. The mark still hovers at its lowest ebb and it will be some time before the nation-wide distress can be relieved.

ALLEN COUNTY FARMER TURNS TO MOONSHINING TO RECOUP LOSSES

Arrested, Man Declares He Was Desperately in Need of
Funds to Pay Off Mortgage—Out Under Bond
After Arraignment.

Lima, July 30.—Enormous profits wheat predominating, had vanished which he was told could be realized from the run traffic and the pressing need of money with which to pay off a $12,000 mortgage on his land, caused him to become a moonshiner, Ephram Howard, who resides six miles northwest of Lima, declared when he furnished $1,000 bond and was released from the County Jail today on a charge of operating a still.

Howard was reported to be one of the wealthiest farmers in Allen County. He declared that expected profits from his big grain crops, with during the recent tumble in prices and that he was desperate for money with which to meet the loan. He said his credit was exhausted and he turned to "moonshining" in an effort to avert impending foreclosure and loss of his farm.

A 25-gallon still was found in a milkshed on Howard's farm when it was raided by three auto leads of sheriff's deputies.

Howard, pleaded guilty, before Probate Judge Hamilton and was bound over to the Grand Jury.

HARDING ABANDONS TRIP: TAKES TO BED AFTER BECOMING ILL

Physicians After Consultation Advise Abandoning Journey—Spends Sunday In Bed—Woodrow Wilson Case Recalled by Members of Party

San Francisco, July 30.—At eleven o'clock this morning President Harding's physician announced that the President had had a fairly comfortable night with several hours' sleep. Abdominal symptoms following digestible disturbance he experienced while on boat are now localized in gall bladder region. Complete rest is necessary during the period of his acute symptoms.

San Francisco, California, July 30.—It will require at least ten days, possibly two weeks before President Harding has sufficiently recovered from his combined attack of intestinal disorder and exhaustion to attempt the long train journey back to Washington, members of his party said today.

San Francisco, California, July 30.—President Warren G. Harding's illness has become so serious that he cannot, with safety, continue his tour of the states and possessions of the United States. This was as far as physicians would go early today in explaining his condition. This condition is sufficiently serious, however, that his entire trip has been abandoned and a consultation of physicians was called in the presidential suite on the eighth floor of the Palace Hotel.

The physicians conferred for two hours. What the new symptoms were, Dr. Sawyer declined to state. It was considered important, however, that Dr. Cooper, a noted heart specialist, had been called in. His presence was interpreted as meaning that the President's heart had been affected following his illness from ptomaine poisoning with which he was stricken Friday. This illness coming after forty days and nights of constant travel, is believed to have reduced the President to a weakened condition.

SPENDS DAY IN BED
The President spent all of Sunday in bed, with a trained nurse in constant attendance. His physicians said today the President would continue to remain in bed until such time as it may be considered he has strength to stand the long overland journey back to Washington without suffering ill effects.

FEAR HEART TROUBLE
While it is evident that the physicians entertain some fears concerning the President's heart condition, it was nevertheless his extreme weakness which was the principal reason for the drastic change in plans here. The President is very tired and the physicians did not believe that this extreme fatigue could be remedied by a 22-day trip through the tropics in August coupled in a none too commodious naval transport.

How tired the President is and how much strength he has lost in the strenuous days since he left Washington, was strikingly illustrated Sunday morning upon his arrival in San Francisco. He arose from his bed aboard train and walked only some 20 steps to a waiting automobile which carried him to the hotel. He walked through the lobby of the hotel, was whisked upstairs in an elevator and thence walked down the long corridor to his suite. When he arrived there he was panting from the exertion and threw himself on a bed—the same Warren G. Harding that only four months ago played 36 holes, equally ten miles of golf on a hot, sandy course in Florida and finished comparatively fresh. This condition of extreme weakness, however, always follows an attack of ptomaine poisoning, according to the physicians.

It was recalled today that the physicians around Woodrow Wilson always said that if Mr. Wilson had "eased up" at a certain time in his strenuous traveling and working, he probably would have been a well man today. As it was he refused to slacken his pace and his historic breakdown—which ordinarily enough also occurred during a swing during the west, speedily followed.

The tragic Wilson example before them, the physicians around Mr. Harding quickly decided to take no chances. One of them privately characterized the abandonment of the trip and the return to the capital as an abundance of precaution.

They found in Mrs. Harding an able ally. She believes the place for a "sick man" is home and home in this case is in the White House.

The Meat of the Wheat

STARCH is the "meat" of the wheat berry. It is the great energy-producing element of the grain.

But, in order to do you any good, it must be thoroughly digested, and it is right here that such a food as Grape-Nuts renders special service.

Grape-Nuts, made from wheat and malted barley, supplies the meat of the wheat in most digestible form.

That is because in the making of Grape-Nuts a large proportion of the starch is converted into dextrins and maltose—forms into which all starch elements must be changed before they can be assimilated by the system.

Grape-Nuts not only digest easily, but also aids in the digestion of other foods.

Crisp, delicious Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food. It supplies the life-essential vitamin-B; also iron, phosphorus and other important mineral elements for nerve, tooth, bone and other body structure.

The daily use of Grape-Nuts is a form of health insurance which has demonstrated its value for more than 25 years.

FRENCH JEWEL BEDIZENED WOMEN GAMBLERS.

From a late Paris dispatch we take the following, but far from commendation of it, say "God pity these silly women."

With jeweled fingers at the throttle, the railroad game known in polite gambling circles as chemin de fer is beginning to get up speed at France's leading week-end resort. Although Deauville's present season is just one week old, the infant already is sitting up and taking notice.

From 11 o'clock at night to sun-up every table in the bacarat rooms of the Casino goes full blast with recruits, mainly from the ultra-fashionable clientele of the Hotels Royal and Normandie. There is display of a bejeweled opulence of which Croesus never dreamed. Mrs. Nash, of Riviera and divorce court fame, last night looked almost sweet and girlish in a gown of pale-blue chiffon embroidered in silver. In addition to her quadruple strands of pearls she wore on her right arm bracelets of diamonds and great square emeralds such as would grace a crown, the collection making a five-inch band of flashy white and green fires. Encircling her left arm was a simple band of cabochon cut emeralds the size of dimes. Her hands were bare except for an oval diamond overlapping three of her fingers and a solitaire pearl of such a size that it must have anchored the oyster that bore it.

Mrs. Nash played with the utmost indifference in a game that required a 500-franc minimum for each bet, often leaving her place at the table where reposed a stack of 1000-franc notes held down with a gold vanity bag and a cigarette case.

Once she quit her place rather hurriedly when a dowager of ancient lineage upholstered in black and diamonds, mostly the latter, refused to be drawn into a desultory gaming-table conversation. Whereupon Mrs. Nash went to an adjoining table where a 3000-franc minimum stake was the rule, leaned like a cardinal angel against the back of the croupier's chair and had chat with Regine la Flory, of Paris music hall fame, who had an extraordinary run of luck, netting her 75,000 francs in less than half an hour.

Mlle La Flory herself did not look at all badly. Her dress, covered with rich red and emerald green beads, made a good background for two ropes of large matched pearls and three deep bands of diamonds on her arm. The conversation between Mrs. Nash and La Flory was suddenly suspended when a quite unknown young thing appeared at their table with her hands crammed with large notes. It was not so much the rope of diamonds, hanging well below her waist, which caused them to frown. It was the generous number of large pigeon blood rubies which filled in the gaps between the diamonds on her arms. In comparison the average woman present who wore only a pint of jewels, and poverty stricken.

LAUSANNE TREATY SIGNED, TURKS GET BACK INTO EUROPE.

The Lausanne peace treaty formally establishing peace between the European Powers and Turkey was signed Tuesday. By the terms of the treaty Turkey regains Eastern Thrace and crosses the bridge between the East and West. She joins the League of Nations on the footing of equality. Constantinople goes definitely to Turkey. Foreign troops will be withdrawn. The treaty makes peace between Greece and Turkey. It permits the patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church to remain in Constantinople. It branches one of the most stupendous and in some ways the most cruel human movements in history by its compulsory exchange of population, the Greeks in Turkey returning to Greece and the Turks in Greece returning to Turkey. It aims to solve the Armenian problem, Armenians being displaced to new havens. It reduces Turkey's size by its recognition of detached mandates like Syria, Mesopotamia, and Palestine. It is a stroke of the pen it rids Turkey of judicial capitulations, such as China vainly sought to accomplish for itself at the time which Japan achieved only after two decades of effort. One way is Turkey treated differently from other nations. Foreign legal advisers will be empowered to receive appeals to arrests and imprisonment of foreigners. Attempts to gain preferential treatment in the future of public contracts for foreign companies were defeated as was the effort to validate disputed British concessions in the oil fields of Mesopotamia. The treaty was signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Greece, Rumania, and Turkey. Annexed to the Treaty of Lausanne is a special "straits convention" whereby the waterways linking the Mediterranean and the Black Sea north are thrown open to both the warships and merchant ships of all nations. It is a unanimous verdict that let Turkey's last-minute decision to adhere to this agreement stand out as the most significant single feature of the Lausanne conference. Bolshevik Russia probably committed Russia for all time to opening the straits to me.

wooly gills, and pick out the meat that lies between the body and bones. Cut the claws with scissors and remove meat if tender enough, a large and tough lobster, however, must have the claws broken. Put the lobster meat through your food chopper or cut small by hand. Then measure it. To two cups of meat one-half teaspoon of salt, a dish of pepper, a dish of nutmeg, one teaspoon of lemon juice, one egg-yolk (hard boiled) one cup of finely diced celery and one and one-half cups of thick white sauce. Mix well and form into outlets. Dip in bread crumbs and fry in butter in your frying pan. Serve hot with lemon slices.

Cape Cod Crab—To boil the crabs, plunge them into boiling water which contains a tablespoon of salt and a dessertspoon of vinegar to each two quarts, let boil from ten to 15 minutes, when they will turn red. Then cool the boiled crabs, remove the spongy substance and the small piece at the lower part of the shell which is called "the apron," and pick the meat from the bones. Measure it and to each cupful allow two chopped hard-boiled eggs, two tablespoons of fine bread crumbs, the juice of one-half lemon, and salt and pepper to suit taste. Mix these ingredients well together, using a very little sweet milk to make it soft, then fill the shells with it (the shells must be thoroughly cleansed first). Sprinkle more fine bread crumbs over the stuffing, dot with bits of butter, place each shell in a baking pan, and brown in a hot oven. Serve at once.

Mixed Beef Sandwiches: Put yesterday's left-overs from Rump Roast of Beef through your meat-grinder and mix this chopped beef with only just enough Mayonnaise dressing to bind it together. Spread the mixture on buttered slices of whole-wheat bread.

Chatham Lobster: One medium-sized lobster will serve four persons in this recipe. Boil your lobster by dropping it into boiling water which contains a handful of salt to a gallon. Boil very hard for a few minutes, then more gently, allowing 20 minutes in all. To open the cooked lobster, separate tail from body and twist off the large and small claws. Cut the thin shell on the inside of the tail and remove the meat. Split this lengthwise through center and take out intestinal vein (which is sometimes red, sometimes white and often even black). Then draw out the body of lobster from the main part, throw away lungs, stomach and liver, save the coral, pull off

THE FISHERMAN

The man who loves to wade a stream
Like ordinary men may seem.
And seen upon a city street.
He looks like all the men we meet.
Yet there is much escapes the eye.
We never know the passer-by
Or get beneath the veils which
hide
A fellow being's gentler side.

We cannot read men's eyes and tell
What thoughts behind their glances dwell.
We cannot in the passing glance
Know just what ears are tuned to song.
What hearts will throb with joy to see
The blossoms on a cherry tree,
What man of all the many here
Grows gentler when a child is near.

Yet when we pass upon a stream
A fisherman, though rough he seem
And clad in garments worn and old
The story of his soul is told.
'Tis plain he loves a willow tree.
'Tis plain he loves the waters free.
The laughter of the golden sun
And every rock he treads upon.

He finds the twitter of the birds
A sweeter speech than common words.
You know, because you find him there,
To him the distant hills are fair,
In him the wild flowers have a friend.
He loves the stream and every bend,
The tangled banks, the sky's blue span—
Or he'd not be a fisherman.

Today's Talk

A PRAYER FOR SUCCESS

I feel as one of your creatures, God, tossed upon the shore, whose life is only beneath the depths of the water. How helpless I am, with the water so near.

Won't you lift me up with your ever-reaching hands? Won't you please place me where I belong?

How I flounder, lost within myself. I know that when I find my place, I shall be able to render back at my life and energies in glad return for the happiness of having found where I belong.

So, God, give me my place. Let me to know the thing I was made to do.

And let me return service for having been placed aright.

This is my prayer—for success. Not a success of great wealth and station. I will risk that, God, I want first to be doing the thing that creates pure joy in my heart for the mere doing. I want to feel the touch of my abilities, each sharpening its edge upon the other.

I want the kind of success that teaches the language of the flowers, of the silent wind, of the colorings of the sky at sunset of the movements of children at play. I want that success which will picture me to myself and make me a worthy contributor to all life and happiness.

Make me plastic, then, God. Like the clay from which the sculptor molds his dream and into which he puts his soul.

And when you have put me where I belong, make me picturesque, God! So that I may inspire, lead others, and demonstrate the vastness of influence rightly rendered.

Thank you, God. I know now that success is for me.

UNCLE SAM HOLDS TO LOAN THEORY REGARDING DEBTS

Washington, July 30.—The government will decline any French proposal for making payments on the international debt owed the United States contingent upon the collection of reparations installments from Germany, according to the view prevailing in official and diplomatic circles.

President Harding and his advisers, it was pointed out, have manifested no intention of receding from the stand that reparations and the settlement of international debts owed the United States must be considered as distinctly separate subjects.

News of the French scheme for debt payments through allowing the United States a certain small fraction of chimerical collections from Germany on a $5,000,000,000 reparations bill were contained in dispatches from Paris.

Observers here failed to recognize any distinction, in principle, between the new French idea of an interrelated debt pool fed by fanciful German reparations payments and the old European "gold brick" of giving the United States German class C bonds to the amount of the international obligations owed the United States.

The class C bonds are everywhere regarded as utterly worthless, whereas there is the prospect that, if the allies are able to get together again and allow Germany an opportunity to function economically, some additional reparations may be collected. The principle adhered to by the United States, however, remains the same.

The United States loaned large sums to European nations in good faith during the war without any reference to the outcome of the conflict or to possible reparations in case of victory. The payment of these loans is a matter of national honor in no way associated with the fact that the allies, victorious through the aid given by the United States, are seeking to collect large sums from a vanquished enemy of which the United States government has asked nothing by way of recompense.

American experts can see no reason why the United States, convinced that the Franco-Belgian policy is hurrying Germany into economic impotence, should now change an established policy because the sacrifice of a principle might possibly bring a few dollars into the treasury at Washington.

According to the most authoritative figures obtainable, Germany has already surrendered the huge sum of $6,500,000,000 of her national wealth as a result of the treaty of Versailles. Of this amount, the United States, through questionable methods, was deprived even of a share to help defray the cost of maintaining on the Rhine troops desired by both the allies and by Germany.

Meanwhile, despite the rich spoils taken from the Berlin government, European nations, except Great Britain, have declined to discuss the settlement of their obligations on what is regarded as an honorable basis. This action has been taken despite the fact that the excess cost of their military establishments over the pre-war period would more than pay twice over the annual amounts required to fund their indebtedness on terms similar to those accepted by Great Britain.

The prevailing view in Washington is that the principal debtor nations of Europe are perfectly able to pay what they owe the United States, were they willing to give up imperialistic aspirations and get down to work. Until Europe gives some indication of being ready to take up debt settlements in good faith, there will be no sympathy for the schemes put forward in Paris or elsewhere.

A ray filled with moonshine and a craving to kill and a night featured by a horrible ride over rough roads at breakneck speed with a drunk-crazed madman at the wheel, was followed Sunday with Stunich, locked up at Police Headquarters, and Chief of Police Graham back on the job at headquarters unscathed.

The wild career of the gunman, now out on $10,000 for a murder committed in Newport, Ky., last February, cut short along the lonely Buck Creek road a half-mile from Miamisburg, shortly before eight o'clock Sunday night by a well-aimed bullet from the gun of Constable E. O. Schramm of that village. Less than an hour afterward, Stunich subdued his opponent, with his wound physically unharmed by a Miamisburg physician, was returned to Police Headquarters by Chief Graham and Constable Schramm.

With the capture of the kidnaper, the most sensational story in the history of Xenia's Police Department was written into history. The case paralleling the Griffith-Graham incident in Cleveland, when Griffith kidnaped a Cleveland policeman and murdered him, drew out officers from every village and town between Xenia and Cincinnati who watched every crossroad for the big maroon colored machine in which Stunich was holding Graham a captive.

Disobeying orders to drive to Police Headquarters, Stunich threw his machine into highspeed and hurried out of the city when the officer climbed on the running board to effect his arrest. Special Officer George Spencer, who also leaped on the running board to assist in the arrest, was thrown off the car as it bucked the curb shortly after starting its wild flight. Standing on the running board and with his arms around Stunich's neck, Graham attempted to force him to stop the machine without avail.

Instead of slackening his pace, Stunich headed the machine for the road along West Main Street, in attempt to sideswipe the officer off the running board. Graham then released his grip and swung into the car in time to avoid being thrown off. From then until the car was ditched near Miamisburg, the Police Chief was at the mercy of his drink-crazed chauffeur, who drove at a speed of 50 or 60 miles an hour over all kinds of roads in the van of ten or 15 automobiles filled with officers and citizens.

The trouble began late Saturday afternoon, when Stunich, went to the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clark, West Main Street, with the avowed intent of killing Mrs. Stunich. Entering the Clark home, Stunich is said to have thrust a .22 calibre rifle at his mother-in-law, Mrs. Clark, so fiercely that the barrel made an abrasion on her breast, forcing her back in her chair until the chair broke.

Stunich's action was accompanied by the threat that he was going to kill his mother-in-law and his wife. Convinced finally that his wife was not present, the drink-crazed man left and Police were summoned. Chief Graham answered the call alone, no other police being on duty at the time, but could not locate Stunich. Stunich in the meantime entered the Floyd Anderson flower store, next door to the Clark home, where he exhibited the rifle, and a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson revolver and repeated the threats against his wife.

On a second call to Police Headquarters Chief Graham and Special Officer Spencer responded at 5:45 o'clock. Stunich was away but the officers waited until he again drove up. Both jumped on the running board but Spencer was thrown off when the machine hit the curb as it started.

"I grabbed him around the neck from where I was standing on the running board, and forced his head back so that he couldn't see where he was going," said Chief Graham later. He kept right on going however, and was headed for the curb and a telephone pole. I thought I was going to be sideswiped off by the pole, so I swung into the car.

"If he had tried to turn off Main Street at Dayton Avenue, we would have both been dug out of Pratt's grocery," said Chief Graham Sunday. "The Orange Street turn is wider though, and he managed to turn there without slackening his speed. When I tried him to stop or slow down, he laughed and said, 'I'll show you how fast I can go.' As he continued to hit only the high places, I was afraid to shoot him, hit him or attempt to force him to stop for fear he would lose control of the machine and both of us would be killed."

"Thinking it would be suicide to molest him, all I could do was ride and try to argue with him. I was not on the back seat, but holding on to the side bar and practically sitting on the floor right back of the front seat. I thought a minute we would go in the ditch. I thought from my position that I would be safer if the car was wrecked. I figured the best thing to do was just ride, and if we hit a big town where traffic would slow him up, and I'd have a chance of getting out, that I'd cover him and if he wouldn't stop I'd shoot him."

"I don't know the roads very well in that part of the country and didn't recognize any towns after we passed through Bellbrook. The speedometer on the machine was broken, but Stunich said we were going 90 miles an hour. I knew myself we were traveling awful fast and he was taking big chances on those rough pikes. He went around corners the same way. All the time he kept up a conversation and I figured my best play was to keep him humored, so I talked back to him."

"I asked him where he was going, and he said he was going to a fishing camp along the Little Miami River. I don't believe he knew the roads very well himself, and he didn't seem sure of his directions. Once he said, 'I believe you're a good scout. I'll just take you down to this camp near Germantown for a ride. We'll be back in Xenia alright, before we get through riding tonight.'

"I wasn't scared," said Chief Graham. "There was nothing to be scared of. He didn't threaten or let on as if he was going to kill me anytime. I figured the drink made him just like a baby, and I had to treat him as one. I figured the best way to do was to humor him along until I could get a chance to stop the car, cover him and get help. In the meantime we just rode."

"We hit one corner of Miamisburg, not going straight through the town, and came out again on what they call the Buck Creek road. It runs along Buck Creek. Stunich seemed to have lost his way then, for he stopped, and whirled the machine trying to turn around. Instead the back wheels went down in mud along the ditch, and we stuck."

"Stunich had the rifle on the front seat with him and his revolver in his pocket. When he saw the machine was stuck, he pointed the rifle at me and ordered me out of the machine. We then walked to a farmhouse near there to try to get someone to pull us out. Stunich kept me in front. He didn't keep the gun on me all the time, but handled it so that anyone noticing us wouldn't think I was covered. There was no one at the farm house, so we walked back."

"When we got back Stunich said, 'you got a gun on you?' I told him I had, and he asked me for it. He emptied my revolver and then gave the empty gun back to me. In the meantime we stood around in the weeds along the creek not far from the Buck Creek bridge. Stunich wanted to shoot at the red lights on passing automobiles, but I told him not to. I told him he was liable to hurt somebody, and he dropped that idea then. He did shoot two or three times at corn tassels, and anything he happened to see, until the rifle broke."

"Once he said, 'what you look so sour about. I got a notion to plug you.' I told him that was my natural expression, and talked him out of any shooting. It looked to me that all I could do was just talk him into a good humor and keep him from using his gun. I saw the young fellows go past who reported the incident, but I couldn't shout to them. That would have been suicide."

The young fellows referred to were boys going into Miamisburg, who reported what they thought to be a hold-up near the Buck Creek bridge to Constable Schramm. Schramm was unarmed, but hurried to the scene borrowing a cheap revolver carried by a Miamisburg motorcycle officer on the way. When he arrived at the scene, Stunich and Graham were facing each other, the former holding the rifle.

Schramm said: "I walked up to Stunich and said, 'what are you doing with that gun?' The fellow replied, 'shooting squirrels.' I said, 'well, give it to me,' and jerked it out of his hand. Stunich then reached for his revolver, walking backward away from me. I saw he was going to pull, so I shot. Stunich didn't fall so I shot again, or tried to, but the gun didn't go off."

"After I pulled the trigger the second time, Stunich fell in the weeds. The first shot hit him in the cheek. Some young fellows had followed me, and I sent them home for my two good pistols and my flashlight. When Stunich backed away from me and fell I got up on Buck Creek bridge, where I would have a full view of anything he tried to do. Graham also came up on the bridge and began loading his revolver. I didn't know who Graham was, and thought maybe I was in danger from him."

"I asked Graham who he was, and when he told me he was Chief of Police at Xenia, I made him prove it. He showed me his badge. When the boys arrived with my good guns and flashlight, I used the light to find Stunich in the weeds. He was lying down, but his revolver was in his right hand outstretched."

After Stunich's injuries were dressed, Schramm drove Stunich's car with Graham and Stunich in the rear seat, to this city. Stunich talked freely on the way back according to Chief Graham. He complained of his head hurting, and admitted that moonshine whiskey led him to the trouble. He told Chief Graham he should be glad the way it ended, and told him he had killed a man in Newport, Kentucky. "If you kill a man you never get it off your mind," he said. "You ought to be glad you didn't have to kill anyone." After arriving here Stunich told questioners he was only taking the Chief a joy ride and intended bringing him back safe. "Did you intend hurting him?" he was asked. "Who, me?" said Stunich. "No. What I want to hurt him for. Just take him ride. That's all." Stunich is an Austrian and talks brokenly.

After the hasty departure of Stunich and Chief Graham from Xenia, Spencer and Patrolman William Boyles gave chase in a taxicab driven by William Wike that broke down the other side of Bellbrook. In the meantime Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy Sheriff John Baughn left in the chase in a Pierce-Arrow bus operated by the Dayton-Xenia Bus Company, a subsidiary of the D. and X. Traction Company. The bus was driven by Ike Ellison and John Rachford, and was given right of way at high speed at all intersections where officers were guarding the roads. The bus picked up Spencer and Boyles and continued to Hamilton through Lebanon and Franklin. A telephone call informed them that Stunich had been captured. Other citizens in autos followed the machine part of the way.

Although the trouble Saturday evening terminated from court action taken in Dayton by Mrs. Stunich to obtain an injunction against Stunich abusing her and threatening her life, the trouble has actually existed for two years, it is said.

Stunich married Miss Clark a little more than two years ago. It is alleged he misrepresented himself before the marriage, and Mrs. Stunich's parents objected to the match. He is said to have abused and threatened her, once firing a shot at her. She continued to live with him, she said, because he threatened to kill her mother if she left him.

Stunich formerly operated a saloon at 515 West Twelfth Street, Newport, Kentucky. According to reports, it was there that he shot and killed William Ewing, of Eighth Street, near Bright on Street, Newport, February 22, 1923. Ewing is alleged to have entered Stunich's saloon and engaged in an argument with Stunich.

During the argument, it is said, Ewing threw a cuspidor at Stunich and the latter drew a revolver. It is said he shot once at the floor and then shot and killed Ewing. He was indicted and released on $10,000 bond. He is to be tried next fall. Chief Graham said he reviewed the killing on his way back from Miamisburg, Saturday night.

Stunich has been operating a pool room at Second and Crane Streets, Dayton for some time.

Finding that his wife had sought an injunction against him in Dayton courts, Stunich became infuriated and came here Saturday evening with the avowed intent of killing his wife and mother-in-law. He was well fortified with moonshine whiskey, on which he blamed his escapade after being sobered by the bullet wound in his cheek. Stunich, Chief Graham and Schramm were interviewed by Prosecuting Attorney J. A. Williamson and City Attorney J. A. Finney at Police Headquarters Saturday night.

Stunich's injury was dressed by Coroner E. E. Kimmell of Montgomery County in Miamisburg Saturday evening. On his arrival here, the wound was still bleeding through the hastily applied bandages, and Dr. Paul D. Espy again dressed it. Sunday morning an X-ray picture was taken to determine the extent of the injuries. The bullet entered the left cheek just back of the mouth and came out just before reaching the ear. It is thought to have grazed the jaw bone. Stunich's automobile was turned over to his wife's relatives.

Father's "57 Daughters" Are Being Sought

Dr. Holten B. Allen has been arrested in Los Angeles, Cal., on an indictment found in Sabot, Va., charging violation of the Mann act, after he had taken Miss Faldath Allen, 17, from the South to his "Mountain School" in Virginia. The authorities are seeking information as to the whereabouts of the 57 other "daughters" Allen is said to have taken to Pittsburgh, Pa., from his "Mountain School." Allen is said to have received $200,000 subscriptions from wealthy people for the support of his alleged school. He described himself as leader of a movement to uplift the poorer white children of the mountains of North Carolina.

RESERVES LOSE TO STUDEBAKER'S HERE BECAUSE OF ERRORS

Although the Xenia Reserves out-hit the Dayton Studebakers at Reserve Park Sunday afternoon, the locals came out on the short end of a 9 to 6 count. Six errors paved the way for the visitors victory.

The Studebakers started out strong in the first inning, assuming a lead that was never overcome, by hammering out five runs. A single by J. Payne, an error by Johnson on Rohman's roller, a double by Dadisman, a muffed ball by DeAtley, and an attempted fielder's choice that did not pan out, resulted in the big lead.

The Reserves scored twice in their half on a single by Leahy, the first of three hits he got during the afternoon, a stolen base, dropped throw at the plate, a walk and Johnson's hit. The visitors scored once in the fourth on hits by Greenbaum, J. Payne and Rohman. They added two in the sixth on Blatz's walk, an infield out, Leahy's error, another infield out and Dadisman's single and ended their scoring in the ninth on a single by Dadisman, his stolen base and an error by Leahy on Zewister's effort that allowed him to score.

The Reserves got three in the sixth. Leahy singled, Ciphers doubled, DeAtley singled and stole second and O'Hara doubled. The last effort of the locals came in the eighth, when Ciphers tripled and scored on DeAtley's sacrifice fly. Green doubled in the ninth with two gone, but Shaw lined out to win.

More careful work in the infield would have won the game for locals for Ciphers pitched fair ball and hits were seldom bunched off his delivery. The locals were crippled by a shifted lineup also and an injury to Wilson, regular catcher, which forced his re-irement in fifth. Wilson was struck in the ear by a ball and Green took his place.

The Reserves have signed Dadisman, crack first baseman for the Studebakers who will play with the locals when they meet the Xenia Red Sox in the first game of the city series next Sunday. Alleged Goebel Assassin Serves Prison Term

James Howard.

Memories of the assassination of Governor William Goebel, who was shot to death as he entered the State House in Frankfort, Ky., 24 years ago were revived by the discovery that James B. Howard, mountaineer, who was once given a life term for con-

plicity with Henry Youtzel and Caleb Powers in the murder, is in the Stuttgart, (Arkansas) State Penitentiary serving a term for forgery. Howard and Powers were pardoned by a Republican governor in 1908. Powers later become Secretary of State in Kentucky and later going to Congress. Youtzel was pardoned by a Democratic Governor later. Howard, who is 62, is serving his second term. He recently escaped and a heavily armed posse, expecting a battle, pursued him. However, he surrendered, saying: 'Youtzel is in the ministry. Powers is in Congress and I am in the Arkansas Penitentiary.'

TRIUMPH FOR JUDET WHEN FREED

M. and Mme Ernest Judet

M. Ernest Judet, prominent French editor, received an ovation in Paris when he was acquitted, after a bitter trial, on charges of treason. He had been charged with dealing with the enemy in the World War, when he fled to Switzerland. The Government alleged he received many millions of francs for aiding the Germans, but failed to prove the charge. M. Judet is shown here, with his wife, leaving the Assizes after being freed.

EX-RULERS OF PORTUGAL IN ENGLAND

Ex-King Manuel & Ex-Queen Victoria

Two of the most distinguished guests to attend the lawn tennis exhibition given by Lady Wavertree at Sussex Palace, Regents' Park, London, were ex-King Manuel and ex-Queen Victoria, deposed rulers of Portugal. They seem to be in jovial mood.

Although William Gibbs McAdoo, son-in-law of President Wilson and formerly Secretary of the Treasury, refused to admit in Washington recently, he even had a hat, his conference in the national capital indicated that he really did possess a political hat and that he is about ready to toss it into the ring for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency next year.

McAdoo's Hat Ready For the Ring?

W.G. McAdoo

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen

We are used to seeing pictures of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French girl, who holds the woman's lawn tennis championship of the world, in striking action scenes, skirts high in air. But the tiny young woman, who has held the world's championship five times in succession, sometimes has her quiet moments. She is pictured here taking a well-earned rest at the home of friends in London.

VETERANS DISCUSS AID FOR DISABLED

J.A. McFarland, Gen. Hines, C.H. Cook & F.J. Irwin

J. A. McFarland, new National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, with C. Hamilton Cook and Frank J. Irwin, is shown in Washington, conferring with Brigadier General Frank Hines, Director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, on matters of benefit to the men who were incapacitated in the war.

HOLD 75TH EQUAL RIGHTS CELEBRATION

Suffrage Leaders

The National Women's Party held a novel celebration in honor of the 75th anniversary of the first meeting of suffragists in the United States. A pageant of the period of 1845, when Susan E. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and others met in Seneca Falls, N. Y., to demand the vote for women, was re-enacted

CHURCH CROWDED AS PREACHER GIVES FAREWELL SERMON

The auditorium and lecture room of the First M. E. Church were filled Sunday night, when the Rev. E. W. Middleton, resigned pastor of the First Reformed Church, delivered his farewell address.

The Rev. Mr. Middleton talked on the subject, "Public Spirit" based on the story of Esther in her intercession for the salvation of a nation.

The Rev. V. F. Brown, of Trinity M. E. Church, presided at the meeting. The Rev. C. P. Proudfoot of the Second U. P. Church, read the Scripture, the Rev. A. J. Furstenburger, of the Friends Church, leading in prayer. The Rev. R. E. Brown, of the First Baptist Church, pronounced the benediction. A solo was sung by Mrs. Raymond Wolf, and a duet by J. F. Ketter and Miss Cora Williams.

The Rev. Middleton delivered a second address, following the church meeting, on the Court House lawn, to over a thousand people, who were unable to get into the church earlier in the evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth Collins of North King Street returned home Friday from Freeport, Pa., where she spent a month visiting her daughter, Mrs. Downie.

HINDENBURG LINE WILL BE SHOWN AT GREENE COUNTY FAIR

A replica of a ten acre section of the now-famous Hindenburg line, will be exhibited at the Greene County Fair this week as a feature attraction of the many tended shows along the midway.

Captain G. W. Beerworth, formerly of the Canadian Engineering Corps and Paul Gage, both of Nashville, Tenn., are exhibiting the model prior to its being placed in the Tennessee

War Memorial Building, a $2,000,000 structure being erected in memory of Tennessee soldiers who fought in the world war.

The model was made by Beerworth and is a true replica of a German sector, showing trenches with the dugouts, firing steps, communication trenches and barbed wire entanglements. The model resembles mud-soaked ground, rippled on its surface by shell craters. Photographs and relics of the war obtained by Beerworth are exhibited in connection with the model.

The Greene County Fair is the smallest such fair at which the model has been shown, it is said. The exhibit is staged in a tent, 37 by 75 feet in dimensions and no admission charge is being made. Visitors may contribute what they please in a box provided for that purpose and the money thus collected will be used to defray the expenses of taking the model around the country.

The model is said to depict one of the most bitterly contested bits of ground along the war front, showing the exact conditions under which the soldiers lived and fought. Other paraphernalia adds to the war time atmosphere of the exhibit.

The Misses Rowens and Mildred McKay of the Wilmington pike, have returned home after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Homer McConkey, of Springfield.

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Kuhn and family, have returned home after spending two weeks at Orchard Island, and with relatives and friends at Leesburg, O.

MUSKINGUM HAS FARM FOR ITS USE

New Concord, O. July 30.—The unusual interest that has been manifested by the best farmers in Ohio in The Agricultural Course at Muskingum has convinced the president, Dr. J. Knox Montgomery, of the necessity to establish a school of Applied Agriculture where everything that is taught in the class room can be demonstrated on the farm. Intensive work is given in Animal Husbandry—Live Stock Feeding—General Farm Management—Power Farming—Farm Mechanics—Soil and Soil Fertility, Farm Crops—Tree Fruits—Vegetable Gardening—Farm Motors—Farm Tractors—Farm Trucks and Teachers' Agriculture.

Muskingum has over thirty thousand dollars worth of machinery and other apparatus to use in the practical applications of the Science of Agriculture and Horticulture. The help of seventeen of the most successful farmers in Ohio has been secured to assist the faculty at Muskingum in the class instruction in all agricultural subjects.

Styles BY LENORE

Among the interesting dresses seen this summer are those of white wool crepe. This fabric, of substantial texture as a base for the smart lines of the season, yet almost as sheer as crepe de chine, is proving exceedingly popular for the type of all-white frock that many women like to wear at resorts—a type of dress that is not to be classified as a sport model, but which at the same time does favor a slight severity of silhouette.

These are frequently made beautiful with embroidery in bright primitive colors, or with drawn-work, and one of the most attractive dresses of this material employs bands of eyelet embroidery in the delectable manner shown in the sketch.

Altogether different in mood is the frock of white voile dotted and bordered in sunny yellow. A crisp, breezy frock that expresses the spirit of summer days.

THE MISFIT

By Jane Phelps

NATALIE ADAPTS HERSELF AT LAST

Chapter LIX

"It is such a joy to direct my own household," Natalie said to Beverly Rainsford, "to feel that I am really mistress of my husband's home."

"Yet many girls would be only too glad to be relieved of the responsibility," Beverly replied, "the handling of servants and the like."

"Perhaps—but they never have lived as I have; lived in a home where I was nothing but a piece of furniture, not ornamental at all. I feel so free, so absolutely content. And Beverly," Natalie added wistfully, "I am improving, aren't I? I am becoming more fit to be Horace's wife."

"Indeed, you are, Natalie, although I cannot agree with you that you were not fit to be his wife before. The accident of birth was all that lay between you. In every other way you were his equal, in honesty of purpose, in wisely rectitude. Naturally the little amenities of which you were ignorant fretted you, yet they are nothing really vital after all. Nothing that a person of character and determination cannot make their own."

Of the thought that troubled her, Natalie never spoke. It had come to her gradually and had persisted. She had practically driven her husband's mother from her home, had made her feel she had lost her son. She had demanded he choose, and when in her great love Mrs. Crandell had stepped aside for the younger woman, she, Natalie, had taken the gift as her right.

Horace seldom spoke of his mother to her. Natalie knew they corresponded regularly, but beyond that she knew nothing. When asked about Mrs. Crandell, she invariably said:

"She prefers to live abroad."

Natalie's return to Horace, her taking up her rightful position in society, her improved appearance, had again attracted Craig Harper to her. Natalie had been cold, almost rude to him; but he had refused to take offense and imposed upon his former friendship for Horace to establish himself in her good graces. Only once had he referred to what had happened, then to apologize meekly, but she had ignored his apology, making no reply other than to say:

"I do not care to discuss that or anything with you."

Natalie never received him when alone, but it was inevitable that they should meet at the homes of others. Often Natalie considered telling Horace, begging him to let Craig understand she never wished to speak to him; but the fear that Horace might think she had been to blame; that she had encouraged Harper's attentions in that lonely time restrained her. But she did tell Beverly, and Beverly spoke to Craig. She made him feel ashamed of himself, let him understand that she had always known Natalie to be good and true, and so tactfully that he ceased to annoy Natalie—although he persisted in trying to be friendly.

"What a dear Beverly is," she said to Horace, after Craig told her Beverly had given him a talking to. "I don't see how I ever could have disliked her."

"We often dislike people whom we do not know—and understand," Horace replied, "when if we let ourselves become really acquainted with them we would like them."

Natalie knew her was thinking of his mother, and made no reply. But what he said troubled her. Would she ever like Mrs. Crandell? Was there anything about her to win her affection—even if she knew her.

Natalie never had felt acquainted with her husband's mother. Always she had seemed so distant, so like a person who had just crossed her path only to distress her. Of her real self, Natalie knew nothing. Often she had wondered what there was in the cold, aristocratic woman that made Horace love her, that made her friends so devoted to her.

But these thoughts, these happenings were but unpleasant ripples of the surface of her pleasantly flowing existence. Most of the time Natalie was absolutely content, her days filled to overflowing with interest and the love of her husband.

Natalie saw Etta often. To move over and take her and little Natalie for a ride, to carry gifts to her nurse, gave her exquisite pleasure. Never could she forget what Etta and Clara had done for her. Often she would bring her namesake home with her, and for hours play with the child, sometimes keeping her until Horace came home, when together they would return her to her parents.

"It is wonderful to be so happy," she said to Horace. "Sweet to be loved."

"And you have forgiven me, dear. Forgiven all the pain I caused you?" "I have forgotten everything except that you love me," Natalie smiled at she answered. "I am so happy that sometimes I am afraid."

Slander The Woman

Adapted from "The White Frontier"
By Jeffrey Deپرد

"You were in the man's arms when his wife shot him?" cried the prosecutor, pointing the finger of scorn at her. "Yes! Yes! But let me explain—" she answered in terror. "Answer only the question," roared the judge, and as though splattered by the mud of the streets, she knew that all she cared for was lost.—But here begins the real story, a drama that sweeps from courtroom and aristocratic ancestral halls to the far reaches of the north—the tremendous drama of a woman's love and a woman's vengeance.
